ROGERS TIPS OFF U. S. ABOUT WHAT HOOVER WILL SAY

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, April 1.—Here is the advance copy of what Mr. Hoover will say over the phone Thursday to the presidents of Argentina, Chile and Uruguay: "Brother presidents, you are lucky to preside over a land where there is no prohibition issue ever comes up during your term, resign quick in favor of your worst enemy. Boys, I am telling you a mouthful. Yours in envy, H. H."

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Motorists who have occasion to use the Mercer street hill will be pleased to learn that employees of the street department placed several truck loads of crushed limestone on the street this morning, covering the washboard bumps which have existed there for some time.

There seem to be more movings this year than ever before in history. Moving vans and trucks of all kinds can be seen travelling the streets, loaded with furniture.

Lawrence county courts have completed an unique record in securing seven first degree verdicts at one session of court. Never in the history of the county have as many murder trials been held or as many severe penalties exacted. This should serve as warning to those who contemplate such crimes in the future.

Tomorrow the big job of taking the decennial census starts. New Castle people are anxious to know just how many people reside in the city and the census will determine this.

Uncle Sam knows almost exactly how many people there are in this country, as he keeps an accurate count of the number of people who are born, the number who die, the number who enter this country and the number who leave, but he does not keep check on the people who move about from one town to another.

Pruning time is here it would seem, judging from the number of men who are clipping rose bushes and trees in their yards. It is one job that a person must know something about. Louie Round says that pruning is done here by his force would not only help trees but solve radio interference.

Pa Newc and the rest of the newspapermen are certainly glad that the murder trial nightmare in the Lawrence county court is over for a time. There is still one more to be brought to justice. Tom Crawford, who took part in the attack upon the state highway patrol on the Butler road, and the search for Crawford will be continued. He will be captured, no matter how long it may take, or where he may have fled.

Work was continued on the new Epworth M. E. church, corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue, Monday. No work has been done during the week.

Will Abolish Grade Crossing Near Grant City

Public Service Commission
Orders Overhead Bridge
On Perry Highway

IMPROVEMENT WILL COST OVER $200,000

State, County And Western Allegheny Railroad To Share Cost

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)
HARRISBURG, Pa., April 1.—The Public Service commission today ordered the abolition of a grade crossing on the Perry highway near Grant City, Lawrence county. An overhead bridge costing $208,778 is to be built in place of the crossing. The highway crosses track of the Western Allegheny railroad at this point.

Plans submitted by the Highway department call for a bridge with a thirty foot road way. The bridge proper will cost approximately $160,852 and the road work the remainder. Property damages are expected to add about $5,000 more to the cost of the improvement.

The bridge will be located 220 feet east of the present crossing. It will consist of 14 spans with a 30 foot roadway and a five foot sidewalk. Work on the crossing abolition is to be completed by the end of the year. An appropriation of $15,000 toward the expenses of the project will be made by the commission from its fund for that purpose. Lawrence county and the railroad are to contribute toward the cost of the improvement and property damages will be paid for by the county and township sharing equally the cost.

Bureau

ASK RESIDENTS TO HAVE DATA HANDY

Work of counting the population of New Castle and Lawrence county will start officially tomorrow morning, when close to a hundred enumerators start out with their forms and pencils to gather the information Uncle Sam desires in the decennial census.

When the task is completed, the census bureau will know how far off they are on their estimate that New Castle, within the confines of the city boundaries, has a population of 49,000 people.

Approximately 26 pertinent questions will be asked at each home in the family schedule, while in the rural districts, those residing on farms will answer a myriad of intimate questions, relating not only to the number of residents on farms, but all sorts of questions bearing on farm expenditures and receipts.

The questions to be asked at each home are as follows:—
Name of each person, whose place of abode was in this family on April 1, 1930; the relationship of each person to the head of the family; whether the home is owned or rented; the value of the home or the rental value; whether a radio set is owned; whether the family lives on a farm; (Continued On Page Two)

CONGRESS MAY PROBE PACIFIST PROPAGANDA IN NAVAL CONFERENCE

Talk Of Instigating Probe

Is Kick-Back On Shearer's
Work At Geneva Only

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, April 1.—A congressional investigation into pacifist propaganda at the London Naval Conference, particularly into pacifist efforts to promote adherence to some sort of an European political pact, was being talked of on Capitol Hill today in the wake of the virtual collapse of the parley.

It would be a companion piece to the famous Shearer investigation—only with reverse English applied.

A senate committee spent some weeks investigating the failure of the ill-starred Geneva conference of 1927, which was attended by Wm. B. Shearer, a big navy advocate who was shown to be in the employ of American shipbuilders. Shearer was accused of "wrecking the conference." Whether he did or not, it was shown that he propagandized extensively in favor of a strong American navy.

Shearer Case Watched

The "Big Navy" Propaganda at Geneva has been matched by the "Little Navy" propaganda at London, and there are a good many people in high place in Washington who believe that the failure at London can be attributed in no small degree to the pernicious activities of these various pacifist organizations.

Taking a leaf from the Shearer book, a number of American pacifist organizations sent representatives to London.

They accompanied the delegation on the ship in January; they infested every London hotel and every press conference, and they are credited with originating most of the "pressure from home" in favor of America's joining security pacts, consultative (Continued On Page Two)

CHICAGO, April 1.—Three un-

who insisted on torturing their victims as well as robbing them—
sat in at the farewell dinner Mrs.
Lottie Brenner Von Buelow, millionaire business woman, gave for her estranged husband in her three story Gold Coast mansion.

The bandits, after taking possession of the fashionable residence for nearly two hours, escaped with cash and jewelry which amounted to approximately $50,000.

Two of the men obtained entrance last night in the guise of federal census takers; they admitted the third, and the trio proceeded to round up Mrs. Von Buelow's guests and servants. Binding their victims to chairs and sealing their mouths with adhesive tape, the three then leisurely ransacked the home, taking jewelry, watches, silverware and money.

Husband Trussed.
In the midst of the raid Count Enrique Detchow Von Buelow, the estranged husband and former German war aviator, called and was admitted. He too was trussed and gagged with tape. He had called, he said, to say goodbye to his wife, as he planned on leaving for New York without contesting the divorce suit.

Confronting the Von Buelows, their two guests and two servants the bandits with drawn guns began the torture. The lips of all were sealed by the tape and one of the robbers stepped up to Mrs. Von Buelow.

"They say you are worth a million dollars. Where do you keep it? And where are your jewels?"

The tape was suddenly jerked from her lips and the question repeated. She could only moan. Her lips were retaped and the same torture applied to Mrs. Mary Gross, a guest.

Turning to Mrs. Von Buelow, the robber continued:
"Lottie, why bother about getting a divorce from your husband? Just allow me to save you that trouble. A (Continued On Page Two)

Illinois Doctor Held For Murder

Champaign, Illinois, Doctor Held
For Murder, Charged With Illegal Operation

(International News Service)
URBANA, Ill., April 1.—Dr. Thomas M. Eade of Champaign, Ill., was being held in the county jail here today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Gladys Anderson of Chicago, a freshman student at the University of Illinois, who died yesterday from an alleged illegal operation.

A coroner's jury late yesterday found that the operation was performed by Dr. Eade. The verdict recommended that he be held for the grand jury without bail.

The same coroner's jury today is to hear evidence in the death of Miss Cleo Hinton, 28-year-old bookkeeper, who died of peritonitis as the result of what is believed to have been an illegal operation.

Five Verdicts
Anyone of five verdicts are possible, they are:
1.—Murder in the first degree, punishable by death in the electric chair.
2.—Second degree murder, punishable by imprisonment under an indeterminate sentence—the minimum of which is twenty years, the maximum life in prison.
3.—First degree manslaughter, punishable by imprisonment for not more than twenty years.

COUNTY COURT HOUSE SHOWS STRANGE AIR OF LETHARGY

There is a strange air of lethargy about the Lawrence county courthouse today. No surging mobs endeavoring to get into the corridor of the courthouse, no crowded courtrooms and no battery of messenger boys rushing in and out with press messages.

In the court rooms there are but few people and most of these are jurors or witnesses in the few remaining cases of the term. The excitement is over, the trials of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague are done and normalcy has spread its wings over the courthouse.

Strenuous on Judges
Both Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand and Judge James A. Chambers are glad the long grind is over. For them the strain has been a terrific one, for not only did they have major cases of rather unusual importance, but they had the additional worry of seeing that the court rooms were kept clear of overcrowding.

"It has been quite a strenuous term," said Judge Hildebrand, "and we are rather relieved to find ourselves at the end of the docket. Judge Chambers was of a similar mind, for since March 10th both judges have been working night and day in their court rooms expediting the trial of cases.

Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague were tried in court room number 1 and the death penalty was rendered against them. In court room number 2 Judge Chambers had five homicide cases before him, four of them, Jack (Continued On Page Ten)

VERDICT IN DAGUE CASE SURPRISE TO GUN-WOMAN

"He didn't deserve the chair, it was all my fault, and Glenn should have got less than he did." This was Irene Schroeder's comment upon the death penalty verdict returned against Glenn Dague Monday evening.

"The jury wasn't out very long was it? I didn't expect to get the limit," was Dague's only comment upon the verdict. A little later, after being returned to his cell he took part in the religious services in the jail.

To Try For Aid
Efforts have already been started towards getting some financial assistance for Irene and Dague in their appeals for new trials, which may go to the Supreme court. Rev. H. O. Tea-garden, pastor of the Holiness Mission of Bellaire, O., is in New Castle today and has already communicated by telegram with Mrs. Ella Mountz of Smith Mill, Pa., who is now in Alabama.

"I do not know Mrs. Mountz," said Rev. Teagarden, "but if the newspaper accounts are correct, and she is willing to aid in appealing the verdicts, we will be very glad to receive the aid. The families of Glenn and Irene have no money and any aid will have to come from the outside."

"I am not criticizing the verdict," said Rev. Teagarden, "for I feel that the jury did its duty as it saw it." (Continued On Page Ten)

COURT ROOM, BUFFALO, April 1.—Because of the sudden illness of the defendant, Lila Jimerson, Indian girl on trial for the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, the case was adjourned today until 9:15 tomorrow morning. Dr. F. W. Welsh of the City Health Department, was summoned and after an examination she was removed in an ambulance to City Hospital.

Lila has been suffering from tuberculosis.

Dague Is Stolid As Jury Gives Death Verdict

Receives Words Of Doom As Though Unmoved By Fateful Import

REPORT VERDICT
ON ONE BALLOT

Appeal Will Be Made For
New Trial By Attorneys
For Dague

W. Glenn Dague must pay with his life for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul on December 27th, 1929. Taking but one ballot, the jury that heard his case in Lawrence County court room number one, returned a verdict at 7:40 p. m. Monday evening of "Guilty of Murder in the First Degree, with the Death Penalty." The verdict is the same as that given Irene Schroeder for the same crime.

To those who had followed the case, the verdict came as no surprise. As in the Irene Schroeder case there was a preponderance of evidence showing guilt and the jury took but a short time to arrive at its verdict. At 5:05 p. m. Judge Hildebrand concluded his charge to the jury and at 5:15 they filed into the jury room.

Verdict Before Dinner
Harry P. Stoner was elected foreman of the jury and discussion of the case started. After some fifty minutes of discussion a ballot was taken and the twelve members of the jury voted for the death penalty. Dinner was ordered and while the jury was eating dinner the court and counsel were notified and at 7:38 the jury filed back into the court room.

There was no need for the court crier's gavel as the foreman arose to read the verdict. The silence was almost oppressive. Crowded though the court room was, every ear seemed to be strained to get the words of the fateful verdict that will send Glenn Dague to the electric chair. A moment later Attorney Thomas W. Dickey asked that the jury be polled and as each member arose and repeated the verdict it sounded like twelve crashing strokes on some deep funeral gong.

Dague Is Stolid
Dague preserved his stolidity even in the face of death. He arose to receive his verdict and with right hand upraised heard Foreman Stoner read out the answer of this state to the crime Dague had committed. There was a slight paleness to his face but never a nervous tremor of his muscles. As he sat down he leaned over to his counsel and asked some question or other, and in a few moments he was hurried back to the cell that will be his home until he exchanges it for Death Row in Rockview.

"A Just Verdict"
"It was a just verdict," said District Attorney John S. Powers. "The evidence was there to warrant such a verdict and the jury did its duty without flinching. None of us are pleased with duties such as that, but (Continued On Page Ten)

LOSS IS PLACED
AT NEAR $7,000

Home of Charles Warren on the Pulaski-New Wilmington improved road, a short distance from Pulaski, was completely destroyed with all its contents about midnight last night, by a fire, the origin of which is not known.

The loss is estimated at approximately $7,000 and is only partially covered by insurance. The members of the family escaped injury probably due to the fact that they had not yet gone to bed when the fire was discovered. The fire originated in the attic of the home, which had approximately eight rooms, practically all on one floor.

The fire was first discovered about eleven o'clock and when the alarm had spread and neighbors reached the scene, shortly before midnight, the building was falling in.

The members of the household managed to save a few things from the house as they made their exit on the discovery of the fire, but were unable to save more, because the fire spread so rapidly that they could not return to the building.

Fortunately, there was no wind and for that reason, the fire did not spread to the adjoining buildings of the place.

Senate Settles Down To Finished Fight On Muscle Shoals Disposition

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Distracted by myriad of other political issues, the Senate tried to settle down today to a final fight over disposition of that economic hobgoblin, the government's $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals power project.

The Muscle Shoals question, debated annually ever since the war, however will have to vie for headlines with prohibition, the fate of Claudius H. Huston as Republican national chairman and the rapidly growing contests against confirmation of Judge John D. Parker, of North Carolina, as a justice on the United States Supreme court. The prohibition issue threatened to sidetrack all the others temporarily as Senator Tydings (D) of Md., announced he had prepared a three-hour speech, discussing the dry law and all its ramifications.

New Chairman
The fate of Huston attracted attention. There was a unanimity of opinion there will be a new chairman of the Republican National committee before long. The point of interest lay in speculation over the identity of his successor. The names of Senator James E. Watson (R) of Ind., Ralph E. Williams, Oregon's national committeeman, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Walter H. Newton, one of the president's secretaries, were mentioned in the speculation.

April—one of the loveliest months of the year. It has a name that is especially fitting, for it comes from a Latin word meaning "to open". It is the time of opening buds.

Pa New was told this morning that nearly every war in which the country has been involved has begun in the month of April.

Little earthworms will begin sticking their noses above ground, soon. (Taking for granted that worms have noses.)

The days of the perambulator have not passed from public highways, though at this time of year it is somewhat strange to see a "baby buggy" on the main street. Today a father pushed a carriage containing his child and the sight attracted attention.

City councilmen are objects of criticism "whether they do or whether they don't." They thought it best for public safety to turn off the light at Mill and Washington streets. As soon as the light was turned out complaints were received and the light has resumed operation.

The difficult part of the flight will be the navigation, according to aeronautical experts. Captain Yancey, a master mariner with an unlimited license for ships, is to steer the Pilot, as the plane has been named.

The navigation entails a flight over a 750-mile expanse of sea, which is swept by many crosswind currents. A tiny island is the goal.

Captain Yancey guided the Bellanca monoplane Pathfinder from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome last summer. This flight was one of the closing adventures of the last ocean-flying season and the present flight ushers in the new season.

CONGRESS MAY PROBE PROPAGANDA

facts, and any and all kinds of political engagements in Europe.

The voluminous cablegrams, some of them signed by as many as 1,200 prominent names, appealing for American "cooperation" with the European and the abandonment of the principle of parity with England, were due to the activities of these organizations. Their agents on the grand advised the home organizations when to "apply pressure" on Stimson and his colleagues.

Outside Proposals

It is significant that both at the White House and from American delegation headquarters in London the official announcement has been made in the past two weeks that all proposals for America's joining a political pact at London have come from "outside organizations." The official statement still stands that no government at London has yet formally proposed American adherence to a political agreement as a price for disarmament.

But the result of these organizations' activities was to encourage European representatives to believe the sentiment for naval reduction was strong in the United States that the American delegation would sign any kind of a political agreement in order to secure it.

Thus has the road of Secretary Stimson and his delegation, in seeking to avoid political entanglement at London, been rendered more difficult.

During the writer's stay in London, the representatives of the American peace-at-any-price societies had free access to all press rooms and press conferences. They sent voluminous reports to their home organizations, although they wrote little or nothing for publication. Bonafide newspaper correspondents frequently protested against some of their activities, particularly where matters of a confidential nature were discussed in press conferences, but to no avail.

Sent Long Letters

One representative of a group of religious publications, monthly and quarterly, objected strenuously because press association representatives were given preference in admission to the plenary sessions of the conference, although he himself was sending nothing except long letters to the United States.

Now, with the London Conference almost on the rocks, the question is being asked in congressional and official circles, "who supplied the fund?" for the dispatch of these disarmament-partisans to London. It took a congressional investigation to determine that American shipbuilding organizations financed Shearer at Geneva, and it may take another investigation to determine that the back-bank supplied the disarmament-at-any-price representatives at London.

Strong Case
Lila's lawyers would regard any verdict other than murder in the first degree as a hammer.

District Attorney Gub B. Moore has built up a strong cast against the dark-eyed defendant. The most incriminating evidence against Lila was that of Nancy Bowen, a superstitious sixty year old Indian woman, who confessed she beat Mrs. Clotilde Marchand to death with a hammer when she became convinced she was a "witch" responsible for the death of her husband, "Sassafraz Charlie."

Bowen and planning to cause other deaths, including her own. The state contends Lila influenced this old woman through letters and Ouija board "communications."

The closing addresses to the jury were to be made this morning. John V. Maloney was to open for the defense. He was to be followed by Prosecutor Moore for the state, after which Judge F. Bret Thorn will give his instructions to the jury. Then the jury will retire to deliberate the fate of the Indian girl whose love for a famous sculptor, for whom she had posed, was according to the state, the motive for the crime.

STAR LORE SOME ESSENTIALS ABOUT GRINDING A TELESCOPIC REFLECTOR

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

The first form to be attained in grinding a reflecting telescope mirror is that of a portion of a concave sphere, and that sphere will have its center. For a six-inch mirror the hollowing of the plane surface should be about .05 of an inch, and that will mean the center of such a sphere would have a radius of about eight feet, which is twice the focal length of the concave mirror. In grinding and polishing a reflecting mirror, one must have some way of testing to see if he is distorting his concave spherical surface with hollows and elevations, or if the mirror edges are turning up or down.

In Conference

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson is conferring this afternoon with Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy. Later, Henderson and British admiralty experts are to meet with Foreign Minister Briand of France and a group of French experts.

It is understood the Locarno basis will be discussed in detail. Observers are hopeful this will prove a solution of the security problem and enable the Naval Conference to proceed with formulation of a Five-Power disarmament treaty.

Proof that the parley is reaching its final stages was afforded today by official announcement that Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, William A. Moffett and H. E. Yarnell have been ordered to return to the United States as their work as naval experts attached to the American conference delegation has been completed.

The admirals are to sail on the United States Liner George Washington on April 12.

The tae was torn away again. Mrs. Von Buelow pleaded that they must make anything if they would not hurt anyone. In the course of their search the bandits had located the jewel box, containing $50,000 worth of gems. These they collected together with two watches from the former aviator and several hundreds of dollars in cash from the men.

The robbers had cut every telephone wire in the house except one they overlooked in the servants' quarters.

After police were summoned Mr. and Mrs. Von Buelow continued with their farewell dinner at the heiress' request.

"Just leave us alone for two hours," she successfully urged.

With city tax due today it is anticipated that industrial concerns and firms having big taxes to pay for 1930 will make payment soon to enjoy the one percent discount. The three largest taxpayers in order named are the Carnegie Steel, American Sheet & Tin Plate and Lehigh Portland Cement company. The latter pays tax on plant No. 3 and lands.

LAWRENCE COUNTY JUSTICE

EVERY citizen of Lawrence county who is interested in the cause of law enforcement can point with respectful approval at the term of criminal court just ending. Seven charges of murder were tried and seven first degree verdicts rendered, five of them for life imprisonment and two the death penalty.

No longer can it be said that murder is looked upon with a lenient eye in this county.

This county has been imposed upon in many cases. Dorothy Pegran was not a resident of the county, neither was John Dewey Severs nor Irene Schroeder nor Glenn Dague. Yet the county had to try them for crimes committed within its borders at an enormous outlay of money, and injury to the good name the county has borne.

Let the verdicts in the Schroeder and Dague cases serve as a warning to criminals from outside the county and state that Lawrence county stands ready to deal out to them the justice deserved.

The verdicts are the best insurance a uniformed officer in this state has received in many years. It is an ultimatum to murderers that Lawrence county will stand back of its authorized defenders and if the murder of one of them merits the electric chair, that penalty will be handed out promptly, surely and speedily. Maudlin sentiment and crocodile tears have run their course in this county. This business of banditry pays poor dividends here and the sooner the criminal element finds it out, the longer it will stay away from the electric chair and the felon's cell.

Every decent, law abiding citizen will uphold the verdicts handed down in the seven murder cases tried this term. It means that Lawrence county is through with shilly shallying, that the day is gone when bandits from outside the county can come in and ply their nefarious business here without paying the proper penalty of their crime.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS DISAPPEARING

Ten years ago Pennsylvania had more than 10,000 one-room school buildings. Today, thanks to the consolidation movement, only 7300 are left. In some instances the depopulation of rural districts has led to the closing, the reduction being notable among the smallest counties.

Sentimentalists who lament the passing of "the little red school house" and the great men it gave the country forget it also sent into the world a far larger proportion of backward pupils whose problems were never understood. A brilliant child, or one with favorable native endowments, will succeed under any system of pedagogy. The fact that Abraham Lincoln had practically no schooling hardly sets up a valid argument for abolishing schools.

The average student is entitled to light, heat and ventilation consistent with the demands of hygiene. He should have pleasant surroundings and a homogeneous grouping conducive to concentrated study and exhilarating recreation. If, besides these things, he has inspiring teachers, as the consolidated school is likely to supply with greater frequency than the heterogeneous country school, it is easy to understand why the modern truancy problem has become almost negligible.

The Department of Public Instruction might undertake an interesting survey suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer if it attempted to correlate the educational standard of each county with the ratio of decreases there in the number of one-room schools during the last decade.

PENNSYLVANIA'S BARREN ACRES

The first paper mill built in the United States was built at Roxborough, Pa., and the first paper manufactured in this country was therefore a Pennsylvania product.

Now the suggestion is made says a state publication that the Keystone state, which lost its paper industry many years ago with the passing of its forests, should seriously consider reclaiming a part of it.

Science has made this possible by the development of a peculiar kind of poplar tree, now pronounced a first class source of cellulose, used in the manufacture of paper. These trees, it is said, yield many times more pulp wood per acre than now obtained on any land. They are superior to the wood of wild poplar, from which book and magazine paper is now made, and are capable of attaining in eight years a height and girth which common poplars reach only after 45 or 50 years.

There are between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 acres of abandoned land in Pennsylvania, and the suggestion is made that the reforestation of some of these acres with this new hybrid poplar will yield a quick turnover in wealth. It has even been figured that an acre of these trees might be made to yield a farmer $600 in eight years, against $250 yielded during the same time by a wheat crop.

Farmers and papermakers will do well to seek further information on this new source of domestic wood pulp, and also its possibilities of development in Pennsylvania. It sounds like a good crop for barren acres.

A City of Gold.

R. ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
 (Copyright, 1930, King Features

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Fine weather here, clear sunshine, bracing air.

San Francisco, established on a foundation of solid gold, dating back to the days of '49, and long before, looks upon other Western cities, as Bernard Shaw looks on other writers, with some condescension. Other places are interesting, but THIS IS SAN FRANCISCO.

This is the city of finance, a city enormously rich. San Francisco's stock exchange ranks second in the country, ahead of Chicago.

Needless to say, old "Father" Wall Street stands first, with its galaxy of multiple billion dollar banks.

San Francisco hears that another financial colossus is hatching, to eclipse in billions the Chase-National-Equitable Trust amalgamation.

Charles E. Mitchell of the National City, is said to be the obstetrician in this case.

On the calm Sabbath, at breakfast, San Francisco talks about oil, overwhelmingly important here now, as gold was once.

California has been able to establish a conservation policy to cut down waste. But a gasoline price war worries important men.

Our government, which says American Oil Companies may not unite, even to meet competition of invading foreign companies, may be interested in Japan, which last week asked bids for oil for her navy.

The companies all competed. British Shell won with bid of fifty-four cents a barrel, less than a cent and a half a gallon.

Thus American oil will be supplied to Japan's navy, a British-owned corporation getting the profit, while our United States oil supply drops lower.

A smart man, is Dunning, born in Holland, managing the aggressive Shell company for British capitalists.

Next week, when Uncle Sam requests oil bids for his Navy, it will be interesting to see how much the old native born gentleman has to pay.

The cheapest oil he ever bought cost sixty-four cents, about 20 per cent more than Japan will pay Shell.

If the British company should win this bid, supplying Japan and America, and Great Britain as a matter of course, that might persuade United States authorities to take the archaic Sherman law ball and chain off the leg of American industry.

Meanwhile, Standard Oil might reorganize as a British company, then, presumably, our laws would allow "Standard Oil of Great Britain," to compete here on even terms with the British Shell. Much virtue in these words "Great Britain."

We seem to be turning British, in various ways.

The Associated Press prints a London cable saying "the idea of a consultative agreement for the benefit of France has been fully approved by President Hoover."

That consultative agreement, unwrapped and put in plain language, means an agreement to send our young men and gold dollars to be killed and spent in Europe, in case France should get into another war.

"WHICH FRANCE WILL DO, in due time.

The "highest authority," on which Associated Press makes this announcement, is WHAT do you suppose?

It is the authority of English newspaper correspondents in Washington.

"A very docile people," was Lord Northcliffe's description of the American people when Americans were letting themselves and their money be shipped to Europe. Northcliffe was right.

CLARENCE DARROW of Chicago, back from Europe, finds America a three-ring circus of puritanism, politics and prosperity, with 120,000,000 performers taking it all very seriously. Europe, says he, is more amused at us than ever.

We can stand that, while our 25,000,000 automobiles continue running. But Darrow and others are right in their suggestion that prohibition should not monopolize ALL of government and public attention.

Mr. Sams, apologist of North Carolina's State College, says corn liquor is killing off honey bees. They find the secret stills, accept no bribe, tell their friends about it. All drink from the mash, may die.

Bees cannot read, are not bound by the Constitution and they have an excuse that men lack.

The apologist says bees can find whisky stills with deadly certainty. That might help in prohibition enforcement, government agents taking with them trained bees, confirmed corn liquor addicts, held in leash on silver threads. Tugging at the leash, they would lead toward the still.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oakland and other cities near the Golden Gate have a possession never to be duplicated.

On high hills, to the east and south of the bay, the state has established a park with 9,000 acres of magnificent giant redwood trees.

This park, to be perpetually maintained by all the people, is the most magnificent in the world.

Proud man, dressed in a little brief authority, feels small among those silent giants.

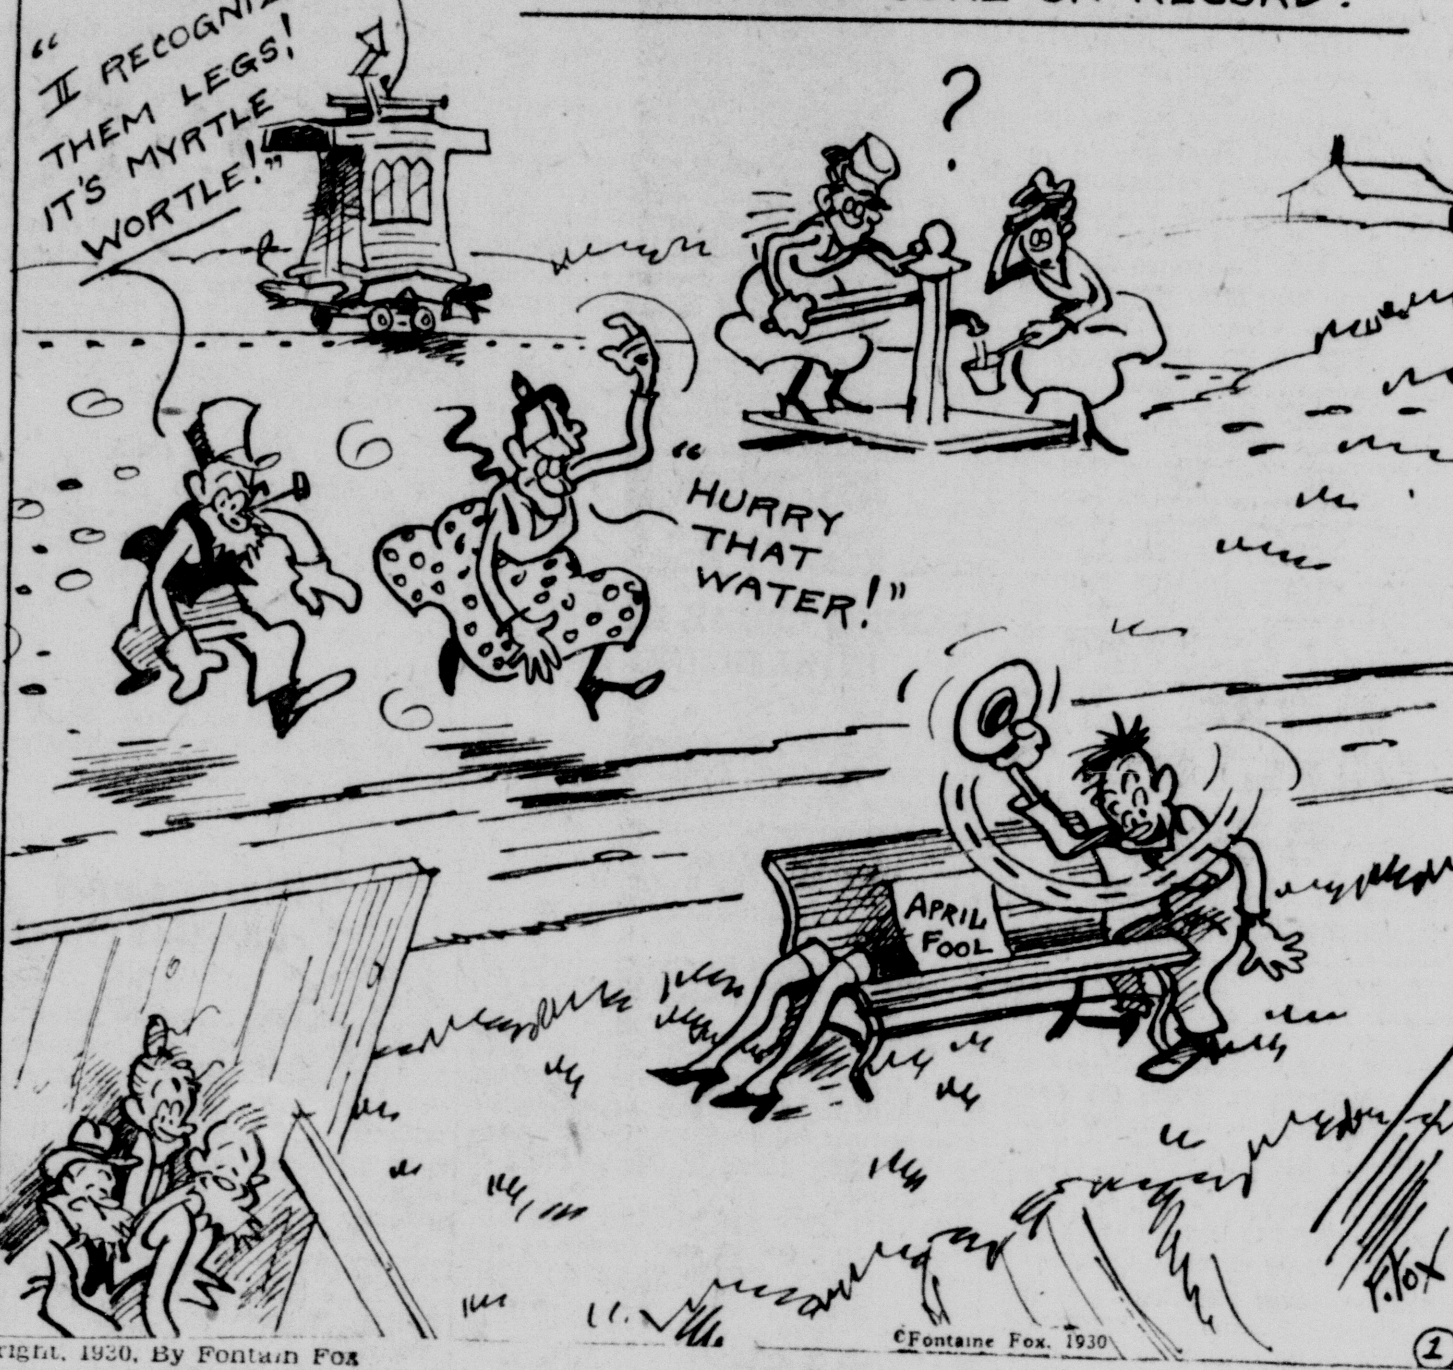

Even Mussolini, or the original Caesar would have no inclination to say "How great am I," looking up 300 feet to the top of a tree five thousand years old, still growing, although fire

Americans Praise Balfour As Philosopher-Statesman

Death Of British Public Man Made Subject Of Glowing Tributes, As His Wisdom, Human Sympathies And Gentlemanly Traits Are Viewed

Glowing words of appreciation came from America in tribute to the memory of Lord Balfour. His long career in the service of his country, as well as the high qualities of his own personality, have aroused the admiration of the world.

The Earl of Balfour richly exemplified the golden traditions of British statesmanship," says the ATLANTA JOURNAL in its striking eulogy, part of which is here quoted: "To the tasks of government he brought a mind of native distinction and scholarly mold, and to the battles of politics a chivalry that gave luster to the hardest encounter. Had he followed the bent of his youth, he now would be most renowned in the republic of letters, as a philosopher and an essayist of rare phylancy and charm. Such indeed he was, for in the breathing spaces of his more than half a century of arduous public duties allowed him, he produced some of the treasures of contemporary English literature. Yet this meditative man stood alert and masterful at the helm of empire, dispatching business that called for the keenest problems with only the finesse of an accomplished diplomat, could untangle, meeting issues and perils which were of moment to all human-kind. Three sovereigns, Victoria, Edward the Seventh and George the Fifth, valued his wise counsel, and three generations admired his character, true and strong amid shifting tides."

"What a record of public service from Balfour's day to the second ministry of Macdonald!" exclaims the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, describing Balfour as "always the gentleman in politics, always the great statesman. Bitter partisan feeling was foreign to his nature. Yet he had a range of vision, a power of analysis, a depth of comprehension, and a skill in presentation excelled by no parliamentarian of his day." declares this paper. THE LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT styles him "a real statesman of a day which is far in the past," while the FORT WAYNE NEWS SENTINEL, in its word picture of him, says: "Brilliant, scholarly, impressive in appearance, shrewd, polished, possessed of a most extraordinary active and alert intelligence residing in an active body, this nephew of the great Lord Salisbury was certainly among the outstanding figures of an age which produced many an outstanding genius."

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS declares that "seldom has there appeared in British public life a figure so generally attractive."

"Balfour was always the scholar rather than the politician," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "his speeches were delightful essays. Always through his public utterances ran a vein of wit, and a discourse by him when he was in good form was a rare treat for his hearers." That he was "a man of broad culture and sympathies," is the statement of the CHATTANOOGA TIMES, which also records that "the said to have possessed one of the finest minds of his time and may be classed as a philosopher-statesman."

The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL also labels him the "philosopher in politics" and emphasizes the fact that "clear thinking, with a literary quality even in his casual utterances, characterized him."

Discussing his relations with America in the various places of high responsibility held by him, the SEATTLE TIMES says: "The American people remember Lord Balfour from his visits here in 1917 and 1918. As the head of the British mission to this country, he made a favorable impression. His attractive personality, his scholarly attainments and his understanding of the American spirit, marked him as a statesman of first rank. His address before the house of representatives in 1917 was a masterpiece of effort." The Times concludes:

The CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR considers that "he is best remembered in America as the diplomat whose collaboration with Secretary Hughes at the Washington conference was responsible for the first and, thus far, the most successful plan to limit naval armaments." The ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS, while granting that "Balfour may have had his faults, as some nations had reason to believe," declares that "America never came in contact with anything but the best that was in him. Though he was frankly an aristocrat, this democratic nation's heart warmed toward him, and there was much admiration as well as friendship. His death, therefore, is a shock on this side of the Atlantic," concludes this paper sympathetically.

Beneath his affable and polished exterior there existed a firmness of purpose and tenacity of will not suspected by those who had not carefully analyzed his character. "In his public service, Balfour first showed his strength and tenacity in dealing with a situation in Ireland," says the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, which credits him "as secretary for Ireland," with having shown "both energy and determination, being credited with works of a constructive nature." This paper so notes that "he attracted much attention in the latter war settlement period through the Balfour note in which Great Britain renounced all post-war claims in all and Germany, beyond what was needed to pay her own debts to America. It was also he who declared that the British policy in Palestine, by which that country was set aside as a home for repatriated Jews," continues this paper, as it reviews the statesman's constructive acts.

GENUINE

"With inexhaustible patience and a dependable serenity he had the exceptional faculty of impressing upon others the genuineness of his friendly motives and his purpose to help them bear their burdens; to enlighten them whenever possible."

Men may be remembered longer for the big things they do—good or bad—but they are loved longer for the little things they do. And best of all is the quality of genuineness, of sincerity. Too many relationships are called friendships which are not that at all. Friendship is too big a word to use lightly. It is the full fruit of human relationship. The man or woman who can inspire it is more than a leader. Indeed he has something above genius.

WHEN TO RETIRE

Men in middle age—and some young men—think much about retiring from business. How often we hear a man say that when he has reached a certain age he will retire. Talk about reaching a certain age is all wrong. Age shouldn't have anything to do with it. Age doesn't bother Edison, or Justice Holmes, or Elihu Root. Age isn't the point. Some who have enough income to live on will wish to retire at 35 or 40. That may be a good thing to do if you are not retiring to idleness. If there is something large and important and very interesting you want to do in life it's a fine thing to retire, to finish up with your routine job as soon as possible and get to work at your hobby.

Central and South America took more than half of this equipment.

Border lines don't mean so much with airplanes overhead. That is as it should be.

LET'S HAVE THIS MONUMENT

The Ohio Senator Fess does well to propose a monument in Washington to perpetuate the work of the Wright brothers in aviation. The fact is we forget too many things and too many people in our running about upon the earth.

Pennsy Brakeman Instantly Killed

Brakeman Steps Out From Between Two Cars Into Path Of Electric Speeder

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—George Linder, 38-year-old brakeman of the Pennsylvania railroad was killed instantly by an electric train bound for Chester early today at the West Philadelphia freight yards of the lines. His body was mangled badly.

Linder, who was making up another train had just finished coupling two cars together and stepped from between them into the path of the Chester train.

The tragedy this morning brought the death toll in the Pennsylvania lines here to three within the past 18 hours. Two linemen, Ray Clutchfield, 20, Bluefield, W. Va., and Lloyd Ringstaff, 38, of Lancaster, S. C., were killed yesterday afternoon on the Schuylkill branch of the Pennsylvania at Miquon near Manayunk. The men stepped out of the path of one train into the path of another.

has burned within it a chamber in which fifty men can stand.

The shy, dark deer, protected, made tame by safety, come from behind a huge tree trunk, to accept your offering. They and the eternally quiet tree giants are in harmony.

Man, with his foolish questions, attaching human names to the giant trees, McKinley, Harding, Fremont, is as much out of place in that forest as he would be in the ocean's depths.

Ours is a marvelous earth dwelling, far too good for those that inhabit it, except the children, spirits of light, and the very old, made humble by life's trials.

Better to see a giant tree declaring the glory of God through tens of centuries, than wander off 10,000 miles to see a Taj Mahal, built by sensuality in honor of a dead mistress.

Prayer In Congress

The chaplain, Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O God, who art always more ready to hear than we to pray, and who lovest every soul of man more than a mother loves her child, give us the inward grace to utilize for every need the impact of all outward things, the glowing love enriched by service, the generous mind that sees with a thousand eyes through others be dim-sighted, and the reverence that arms with courage as we face the duties of another day. Bless our fair land with every element of good, that sheltered by Thy fostering care we may approve ourselves a nation void of offense, and in this hour of serving Thee may discern in the crises of our times Thy judgments, in the growing demand for righteousness the coming of Thy kingdom. All of which we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE QUESTION BOX

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

"Is it true that certain of the United States have floated bond issues and then have repudiated the indebtedness? If so, what were the states' reasons?" asks a reader of the Question Box.

Included among the states which have repudiated their debts are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Minnesota, Michigan, Tennessee and Virginia. Repudiation by state governments may be divided into two periods, the early period preceding the Civil war, and the later period after that time.

The early repudiation followed the disastrous financial crises of 1837, when states found it impossible to right their financial conditions; the latter occurred when war debts were voided by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution, which required such action in the case of all debts contracted in the United States in aid of the rebellion.

I would like to know the number of savings banks, number of depositors and the amount on deposit in the years 1900 and 1929.

In 1900 there were 1,002 savings banks in the United States, 6,107,083 depositors, with deposits of $2,449,547,885 as compared to 1,358 banks, 14,043,614 depositors and $10,451,597,000 in deposits in 1929.

Please explain why the heating value of hard woods is greater than that of soft woods?

The heating value of different woods for a given weight of these woods is virtually the same. The chemical compositions of pieces of wood of the same weight are equal. Because wood is purchased by the cord, a greater weight of hard wood is obtained than of soft wood, therefore there is a greater amount of fuel value in a cord of hard wood than in a cord of soft wood.

Does an applicant for admission to the United States Military academy agree to serve eight years in the army after his graduation?

No. Candidates for admission to West Point sign an engagement worded: "I do hereby engage that from the date of my admission as cadet of the United States Military academy, I will serve in the army of the United States for eight years unless sooner discharged by competent authority."

ELECTRIC SIGNBOARD CHECKS POPULATION

According to E. W. Erickson, special agent of the Census Bureau, who is in New Castle to assist in the work of taking the census of distribution, one of the most interesting objects in the Census Bureau offices in Washington, is a huge map of the United States, with an electric recording device which automatically checks the population.

A huge map of the United States covers one of the walls of this particular office, which is equipped with a series of lights and an electric recording device.

Census Bureau officials have found by careful investigation that so many people die every minutes, so many children are born, so many immigrants enter this country and so many people emigrate from the country.

This number is automatically recorded by this electric numbering machine, and a particular light flashes as this particular event happens. A

Private Is Cited For Heroic Act

OIL CITY, Pa., April 1.—For heroism displayed when he crawled from a trench to rescue a private in Company C, One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry, John M. Stitzinger, formerly of Newmansville, Clarion county, and now of this city, has been cited for gallantry in action. Stitzinger's brave act occurred in the Marne-Oise sector in August, 1918.

For three days a wounded soldier had been lying in a shell-hole when the Oil City soldier volunteered to go to his rescue.

Commend Pupils For Teeth Care

Two Highland School Grades Have Near Hundred Per Cent, Examiner Says

Children of Grades 3B and 6B of the Highland avenue school have been given 100 per cent for the splendid care given their teeth, it was announced today by Miss Bernice Swank, dental hygienist for the New Castle schools, who conducted careful examinations and found but one or two occasions where it was best to make slight fillings.

As a reward to the children for the manner in which they have cared for their teeth, the pupils together with Miss Eva Smith, health instructor at Highland and Miss Swank visited the local plant of the Reick Ice Cream company.

Cut Drinking Scenes From Future Movies

NEW YORK, April 1.—All unnecessary drinking scenes in the motion pictures are to be banished to foreign countries, according to a new code of ethics of the film industry which was described in a statement by Will H. Hayes, president of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America.

"The use of liquor in American life shall be restricted to the actual requirements of characterization or plot," according to the film industry's private dry law.

The entire new moral code is intended to elevate the ethics of the screen and to line up the film strongly on the side of the moral forces of the country. It is a strong pronouncement in favor of law and order, church and state, home and friends.

It amounts to an order to film directors to throw away Rabelais and

DON'T LET STOMACH TROUBLE
WRECK YOUR LIFE

People Reared in the Country
Often Lose Their Health
When They Move
to Town

The story told in the following letter from Mrs. J. Fenscer, Monaca, Pa., has happened to hundreds of other country folks on moving to town.

"I was raised to eat good plain country food," writes Mrs. Fenscer. "Back home we grew nearly everything that went on our table, right on our own place. When we moved to town I could not get used to living on things out of cans and packages. City life in this climate did not agree with me. By and by I developed stomach trouble. I was constipated most of the time and had terrible headaches as a result. Sour burning gases formed in my stomach after eating, and my stomach would swell up and get hard like a rock. I grew weak and could scarcely do my work. When I was at my worst the neighborhood druggist told me about World's Tonic. I had spent a lot of money for ordinary medicines, and none had helped me. So, I was doubtful at first. But after I learned that World's Tonic was made from plants and herbs grown in their natural state in different parts of the world, I decided to give it a trial. After using the first bottle of World's Tonic I realized that it was different from all other medicines I had ever used. The natural herbs, World's Tonic seemed to give my system exactly those necessary elements which were missing in my body. Constipation left me and the other painful symptoms disappeared within a short time. I now have a fine appetite, eat anything I want, and feel good all the time."

World's Tonic is on sale at Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley's, Smith's and other modern drug stores.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This is done by using Dandruff. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the fingertips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can wash your hair at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Tell Child Of Finances In The Home

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
In a recent newspaper I read from an editorial on "A Man's Kids."

"Parents foster this delusion of an equal world in their children by fighting with sharp claws to give their kids as good as the next one. For themselves they have learned acceptance more or less. They have learned that Santa Claus, no matter how fat, can squeeze down the chimneys of the rich man's house, even if he gets stuck in their own. They have learned that the world is a topsy-turvy place, and that nothing more false was ever spoken than that all men are created equal. But they will keep that truth from their children as long as possible."

But why? Parents are concerned about their children's welfare. They want their children to enjoy happiness, not only for the moment, but for a lifetime.

Well, all of us parents are just human beings. We find it pleasant now to delude our children and ourselves. We are proud. We strive to seem more prosperous than we are, and we want our children to appear to keep up with the Joneses. How hard it is for us to be honest with ourselves and with our children, concerning our ability to live up to the economic standards which we set for them and us.

Such aspirations do, no doubt, stimulate individuals to acquire greater earning power; but, as a consequence, there come to parents, and to their children, by and by, worries and disappointments which more than offset the gains from this stimulation.

A very large amount of human heartaches arise from parents' efforts to live beyond their means and to let their children grow up with false economic standards.

How many are the children in our schools vying with the children of the more well-to-do in amount of money spent for fine clothes and other luxuries.

Many fathers and mothers are wearing themselves out, some breaking down in physical or mental health, struggling to earn enough to give their children more spending money, and to dress their children better than they can afford. Some lie awake nights worrying over ways of paying the grocery bill or the next month's rent, while their children, wholly ignorant of these facts, are still given an inordinate amount of cash to spend.

The whole setting is immoral, with the children growing in hypocrisy. They are learning to expect more than they, by and by, can have; and when they finally are forced to get along with less, their chagrin is terrible. Instead of appreciating the sacrifices which their parents had made for them they may despise those parents for their failure to supply foolish wants which had been cultivated.

We and our children are generally content with what we have been accustomed to. But if suddenly we must get along with poorer clothes, fewer conveniences, and less money than we had been used to, we are overwhelmingly distressed.

Let us begin early with our children to let them know there are very definite limitations to the family budget, regardless of what other families have; let us take them into our confidence concerning the finances of the home and so guide our children that they will not expect to have their wishes gratified at the personal sacrifices of their parents.

Excellent Record In Pounding Loss Is Made At Y. W.

Reducing Class Loses 121 Pounds During Past 7 Weeks Of Diet And Exercise

No reward is offered for the recovery of 121 pounds of excess weight, lost by the members of the reducing class of the Y. W. C. A. The weight was lost, pound by pound, over a period of 7 weeks. The class is directed by Miss Dorothy Stewart, health secretary of the Young Woman's Christian Association.

Fourteen pounds was the largest loss of a member of the class, during this period. The aim of the class members is to lose a pound a week, and 14 pounds during the term. The largest chest reduction was 3½ inches, the largest loss around the waist was 2 inches, hip loss was 3½ inches and largest calf loss was 1 inch according to recent measurements made by the director, Miss Stewart.

A twofold program of diet and exercise is used in the class. Class meetings are held every week in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium.

Bebe Daniels tells you how to be CAPTIVATING

"How to be captivating?" Bebe Daniels smiled a deprecating little smile as she considered my question. But when she began to speak her appealingly beautiful brown eyes were thoughtful.

And then I learned this lovely actress feels emphatically there's one thing has more to do with a girl's attractiveness than any other charm—a beautiful skin—clear, soft, smooth.

How alluring in any girl! How sure to win admiration! And to the screen star, Bebe Daniels earnestly explained, a skin of breath-taking loveliness is really essential!

"Only the girl with smooth skin," she said, "need not fear the relentless eye of the camera. For even the cleverest make-up will not suffice under the searching lens of the close-up."

"That is why," she went on seriously, "many girls lacking great beauty but possessing lovely skin have passed on the road to fame the woman with perfect features."

"Lux Toilet Soap is wonderful for keeping the skin smooth and lovely."

9 Out of 10 Screen Stars Use Lux Toilet Soap

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap.

On Broadway the stars of the outstanding stage successes, too, use it. And now the European screen stars—in France, in England, in Germany—have adopted it. You will be just as delighted with it as they. Order several cakes—today.

ANNA Q. NILSSON, Radio Pictures' star, says: "Lux Toilet Soap leaves my skin like velvet."

(Right) JUNE CLYDE, whose skin shows up flawless in the close-up, is enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap. She says: "It's a real find!"

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A young woman who used to be a model says she read in the Tulsa World what I wrote about models and she wants to utter a loud Oklahoma protest. I said that many of the New York models were tightly corseted, and the expression that they assumed, indicating a secret love affair, was really a pain in the hips. She says I'm all wrong because she was a model and she didn't wear corsets and she didn't know any one who did.

Probably they are all 100 per cent in Tulsa. I wish they would import some of the Tulsa models to New York. Besides not wearing corsets and having pains in the hips, the girls probably would have that western affability which certainly ought to make a smash hit in New York. Protest all you wish, Miss Tulsa, I'm here to tell you that many New York models for gowns and negligees are not only a pain in the hips, some of them are distinct pains in the neck.

I'm from the west too, and sometimes I wish that these dames would discover somehow, somewhere, the simplicity is charm. They don't fascinate me. I want to walk out on them, and generally do, unless I'm down to my last dress.

The lady says she has modeled for some of the best firms in the southwest and she never wore a corset. Miss Tulsa says she never even heard of a girl wearing hip bands to draw her in. I'm glad she hasn't but she is going to hear now. I know a woman who was a model, she married well, and she is, in spite of anything you can say or do about it, STILL a model. Her entire time is spent on clothes, and her figure and her corsets, and one night at a party, I sort of put my arm around her, and I want to tell you that you could hug an antique suit of armor with as much softness.

There are a lot of things you wouldn't find in Tulsa that you find in New York, and I found it out the first time I went apartment hunting. Gold braided door men everywhere giving the place a grand air, and inside the dinkiest place for the stiffest price. And they give you awnings because it makes a "swell appearance," bright striped a-d everything, but no screens to keep the flies out. If you care for things like that you have to buy them. But anything for show? Certainly, with their compliments. That's New York.

You've got a lot of nice ideas, Miss Tulsa, and while New York could use them, you stay at home.

Good Day To Start Being Sensible Says Dr. T. E. Appel

"April first for many years has been set aside for a popular demonstration of the rather well proven fact that 'there is one born every moment.' And while the laughable pranks that are played by people on this so-called Fool's Day are for the most part harmless, they nevertheless serve to emphasize that gullibility and credulity are among the chief weaknesses of mankind," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health today.

"And it is these weaknesses that are capitalized by the so-called 'specialists' whose cleverly worded advertisements and come-on letters successfully bait thousands of the sick, the near-sick and those who think they are sick. The fact that the curative has from time immemorial never cured a really incurable disease is no wise lessens the potency of his promises to do that very thing. Indeed, the only real condition that such gentry have been able to cure has been their own poverty. This, they easily do by the simple, yet very simple, process of taking good money out of trustful persons' pockets and putting it into their own—the transaction being motivated by wild and extravagant claims to do the medically impossible.

For example, cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes and certain types of heart disease in advanced stages are quite incurable—all the claims of the pseudo-savants to the contrary notwithstanding. Yet it is just such conditions that scientists take to the self-styled super-scientists who administer books of those that scientific miracles are capable of being performed by the unethical practitioners, is altogether unappreciated. The people want help: these men promise it. And that is enough.

"Now the tragedy of the matter is not in the financial loss, great as that may be. Rather does it lie in the fact that early diagnosis, through the annual physical examination would in many cases discover the condition in a stage where scientific medicine could be of real help. Indeed, therein lies the pity of the whole situation.

"Therefore, be foolish on April 1st if you will. It is the fashion and entirely excusable. But let your exercise of this trait, so far as your health is concerned, be absolutely curbed now and forever.

"Delayed diagnosis is the heights of folly. Don't wait until it hurts, to see your medical advisor. On the other hand, pick out a reputable one. Seek his advice and an examination at least once a year, and thus give him a real chance to keep you well. Gevise! There is no better time to start than on all Fool's Day."

NO TROUBLE AT ALL NOW

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has Benefited This Woman

Millions today are eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

The cause of constipation is the lack of roughage in food. Add sufficient roughage and constipation disappears. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nearly all roughage.

Here is a letter from Mrs. H. Gilbert, 107 E. Knight Ave., Collingswood, N. J., which will be interesting to many sufferers:

"I had a very serious operation in October and when I came from the hospital my main trouble was constipation. One day I said to the doctor, 'I am going to eat ALL-BRAN,' and since I started I have no trouble whatever. So you see I can't praise it enough and am always telling my friends what it did for me."

You will enjoy the nut-like flavor of this delicious, ready-to-eat cereal. It is rich in iron, and when eaten with milk or fruit juices, adds important vitamins to the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an essential in any reducing diet. It means every-day health to people all over the world. Your grocer has it in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Spring Comes To Hoovers At White House

First Lady Rides Horse As President Plans Fishing Trip

WASHINGTON, April 1.—President and Mrs. Hoover always an out-of-doors couple, are enjoying to the utmost the capital's first spring days.

"Having changed plans to visit his summer camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan River in the Virginia Mountains before this, with the fishing season opening tomorrow the president is eagerly looking forward to a resumption of week end trips."

Mrs. Hoover has taken advantage of the opportunity to renew her horseback riding, a recreation she has always numbered among the foremost of outdoor sports. Today she rode for nearly two hours along the bridge paths of Potomac Park.

Added Medicine Ball Although either fresh water or deep sea fishing stand highest among the outdoor activities of the president he enjoys to the utmost every hour he can have away from a desk, no matter what he is doing.

Long hikes, long auto rides, occasionally interspersed with a picnic or horseback ride were his usual terms of outdoor recreation until he added medicine ball, an exercise which he now takes every day.

Presidential Hoover is equipped to go prospecting for gold—in a "small way."

The chief executive was presented with a miniature prospector's outfit by Harry Morrell of Verdi, Nev., who has tramped over much of the west in his search for precious metals. The miniature set included picks of different sizes, a shovel, drills and a pan to shake the gravel.

At the White House, spring has found a corps of busy gardeners. The spacious lawns are being groomed, the flower beds tended with some of the blooms already out. The fountain in the south grounds has been turned on.

WHERE DO WE KEEP IT? According to a news item, Nadir Khan, the new ruler of Afghanistan, intends to introduce prohibition in his country. If he really wants it, America has quite a lot of it that she isn't using—Punch.

Miss McCreary Directs Pageant In Pasadena, Cal.

Former New Castle Teacher In Charge Of School Pageant Recently Given

In Pasadena, Calif., Miss Agnes L. McCreary, a well known former instructor in New Castle public schools, directed the fourth grade class of McKinley elementary school in presenting a colorful pageant several days ago, which proved to be one of the outstanding school productions of the year.

There were more than 65 boys and girls, living in character their social studies, for they had written the play themselves, under the direction of their teachers, Miss Agnes McCreary and Miss Emma Limb. They had made the scenery and properties in their classrooms. Majestic mountains in glowing colors against a bright blue sky, with a foreground of palms and cacti and sand made a beautiful setting for the walls of the San Diego mission.

Spanish Dons and señoritas, padres and Indians were represented by Miss McCreary's pupils on stage, in colorful fiesta of early times.

Such a performance as given in Pasadena by these children was the result of the excellent direction of their teacher, Miss McCreary.

Claimed Reckless Driver Tries To Run Down Highway Patrol

ALIQUIPPA, April 1.—Alleged to have attempted to run down Private Clark of the state highway patrol, Edward Hurst, Aliquippa, will be arraigned before Justice M. J. Kane on a charge of reckless driving.

Clark was forced to ride his motorcycle into the ditch beside the highway near Colona when Hurst is reported to have driven his car on the left side of the road as he passed two cars near the crest of a hill.

Clark pursued Hurst toward Colona and ordered him to stop. The motorist, Clark says, accelerated the speed of his car, and when the patrolman drove his motorcycle in front of the machine Hurst attempted to run him down.

Clark threatened to shoot and Hurst stopped the car. Hurst, Clark says, poured out a pint bottle of moonshine before he stopped.

RECEIPTS MORE THAN FORECAST

March Tax Only $46,000,000
Less Than Was Paid
Year Ago

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The treasury announced today that receipts from the first quarter's installment on 1929 incomes at the close of business Saturday, had reached a total of $553,533,611, an amount $5,000,000 in excess of the mark forecast by treasury officials.

With one day yet to be heard from, treasury officials revised their calculations to predict that the total for the month would aggregate $555,000,000, approximately $400,000 less than collected in March of last year.

While no close study of the tax returns has yet been made by treasury experts, casual inspection has indicated that deductions due to stock market losses were not as great as had been expected and that loss there was in individual returns had not been made up in corporation tax, which maintained about the same level as last year.

For the year the cost of building new and repairing old bridges, along with expense incidental to this program amounted to $98,210.22. This cost is about an average for the county and includes two new bridges on the Perry Highway.

The sum of $215,444 is the road cost in the county for 1929.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO CLOSE
But a few weeks remain of the 8 month rural schools for the 1929-1930 academic year it is said at the office of the school superintendent.

All rural schools in this county are now an 8 month term and all high schools a full nine months. Schools will start closing on April 20th. From then on until the first of May rural schools will be letting out. High schools will hold their 1930 commencement in May.

38 WRITS FILED
A total of 38 writs are included in the April term of return of Sheriff Dan Callahan. The writs include an equal division of farm and town property it is stated, with no large properties included.

SET FAIR DATES
The dates of September 16, 17, 18 have been selected by the directors of the Mercer Fair Association for the holding of their forty-eighth annual fair.

Dates later in the fall season had been selected. At the last meeting the fair officials they were discarded in favor of those signed above which brings the local fair the second week after that of Stoneboro.

PLAN PAVING JOB
One street paving job for certain and possibly two will be added to the many miles of return of Sheriff Dan Callahan. The writs include an equal division of farm and town property it is stated, with no large properties included.

The state will pave Franklin avenue which leads from the junction of that street with Erie to North Pitt and the Perry Highway north from here.

The other paving job is a possibility of Home street if arrangements of a character satisfactory to all concerned can be made.

TOWNSHIP TAX INCREASED

To date 17 out of 32 townships in Mercer County have asked the court for tax increases to carry on with their improved road program. The law permits taxing to ten mills above that a court order must be signed.

Tax increase varying from two to ten mills have already been asked. There will be very little improved road of the ash and slag type built this summer say road supervisors. Both county and state are unable to provide the funds they have in past years due to lack of money for their other expenses.

CONTAGION DROPS

The week ending today shows a reduction in the number of cases of communicable diseases the records of the health bureau indicate.

The date of May 10th is that selected for the holding of high school entrance examinations in 13 county schools says H. E. McConnell today.

On an average 500 rural school students take this test each year to determine their fitness for advancement.

SCHOOL CHILDREN HEALTHY

The year that is closing is one of the most remarkable of many for county schools. This is due to the unusually healthy condition of the 12,000 students attending the public schools of the county.

COUNTY COURTS HOUSE SHOWS STRANGE AIR OF LETHARGY

McDevitt, Jess Martin, Charles Lielewellyn and William Grimm, arising out of the murder of Clark Rea. Grimm stood trial first and the life imprisonment penalty was found against him. Lielewellyn and McDevitt pleaded guilty and Judge Chambers found them guilty in the first degree with life imprisonment. Martin insisted upon standing trial and the same verdict was brought in against him. Bertha Blunt was found guilty of the murder of John Henry King and life imprisonment returned for her.

Courts Handled Well
During the term of court many visitors were present in the court rooms. Because of the prominence of the Trigger Blonde and her paramour, the killing of Lee Wright in Chandler, Arizona, and the wounding of Deputy Sheriff Butterfield at the same time. To these remarks Mr. Dickey objected, asking for the withdrawal of the jury and the continuance of the case. The motion was refused and the refusal will be used as one reason for a new trial.

Finishes Sensational Case
The verdict against Glenn Dague brings to an end, for the time at least, the most sensational murder trials in the United States for some time. The cause for the trials began on December 27th, 1929, when after robbing a P. H. Butler store in Butler, Pa., Irene Schroeder, Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford murdered Corporal Brady Paul on the Butler road.

A few minutes later they held up Raymond C. Horton on Adams street and stole his automobile, escaping to Wheeling, W. Va.

Four days later the four and a half year old son of Irene Schroeder, Donnie, was found at an uncle's home in Bellaire, O., and it was his statement that "my mamma shot two cops" that gave the authorities the first definite clue as to the identity of the murderers.

Then followed a nation wide man hunt for the trio, finally ending in the Estrella Mountains near Phoenix, Arizona, when a posse of Arizona deputies forced them to surrender after a gun battle. Tom Crawford was not with the party at the time, but another bandit, Joe Wells was and he is now under charges of first degree murder in Phoenix, Arizona, for the killing of Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright in Chandler.

First Verdict For Woman
With the return of Irene and Dague to Lawrence County, the long task of preparing the case against them started. District Attorney John S. Powers immediately set to work gathering evidence and in the meantime, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti of Punxsutawney, Pa., was appointed as a special deputy attorney-general to assist Mr. Powers.

Separate trials were given Irene and Dague and the trial in Irene's case resulted in the first electric chair verdict rendered against a woman in Pennsylvania and the first "first degree verdict" of any kind ever returned against a woman in Lawrence County. Her trial lasted from March 10th to March 21st, and

The law must be upheld and criminals must be punished.
"There can be no criticism of the verdict," said Special Counsel Charles J. Margiotti. "Murder is a serious thing, but the murder of a uniformed policeman is more heinous for it strikes at the very roots of our law enforcement. We cannot allow sympathy to sway our judgment in a matter of this kind, and the jury decided the case solely upon the law and the evidence."

Dague's wife and father were absent when the verdict was announced. All during his trial they had sat through, hearing the evidence that was piling up but they stayed away from the court room for the answer of the jury.

To Ask New Trial
A motion for a new trial will probably be filed late this afternoon or Wednesday morning. Counsel for the defense, Attorneys Thomas W. Dickey and Benjamin Jarrett allege several reversible errors among them remarks of Mr. Margiotti to the jury in his closing argument. These remarks concerned criminal activities of Glenn Dague outside the confines of Lawrence county.

Touching upon remarks of defense counsel in their pleas, Mr. Margiotti dwelt upon the kidnapping and wounding of Chapman in Florence, Arizona, the killing of Lee Wright in Chandler, Arizona, and the wounding of Deputy Sheriff Butterfield at the same time. To these remarks Mr. Dickey objected, asking for the withdrawal of the jury and the continuance of the case. The motion was refused and the refusal will be used as one reason for a new trial.

Clarence H. Peters Of Ellwood
Pleads To Second Count
Of Indictment

When the case of the commonwealth against Clarence H. Peters was called for trial before Judge Hilbrand this morning a conference of attorneys was held, and a plea of guilty of aggravated assault and battery was accepted. The indictment charged felonious assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery being the second count on the indictment. The case against Peters grew out of a quarrel in a pool room over money matters with Lester Stennis. During the altercation Stennis ran out of the pool room, followed by Peters, who shot him, the ball taking effect in Stennis' abdomen. He was taken to the hospital where the ball was later removed from a point near the spine, where it had lodged. Stennis is still suffering as a result of the wound, but it is believed that he will recover. Chief of Police W. C. Morrison was prosecutor in the case.

Miss Maxwell Tells Of Reading Methods

System of Teaching Reading
In Schools Today Has Changed Since Past Decade

Subject Receives Special Treatment As One Of Important Subjects
In Grades

"In the Platoon Schools of New Castle children are given a wide variety of experiences which contribute to their mental, moral and social development," states R. G. Leslie, principal of the Arthur McGill school. "Many of these experiences are so outstanding and valuable in themselves that an observer might lose sight of the work being done in the fundamental subjects, and think the school work of today consists entirely of 'frills'."

"In the schools of a generation ago there were pupils in the elementary school who started in some particular subject, often arithmetic or spelling, and who left a vivid impression on our minds. And how we wished we might be like them! As time has passed most of the actual conditions of our elementary school days have been erased from our memories and we think of those days in terms of the star pupil, forgetting there were then many pupils in the elementary school who were as old as the pupils who are now in our Junior high schools, and others who were old enough to be Sophomores or Juniors in high school, and occasionally a pupil who was old enough to be a College Freshman."

"The elementary school of today is very different. There are none of the rather highly selected early adolescent ninth grade pupils as found in the old elementary school, but now the pupils in the elementary school belong almost entirely to the periods of early childhood, and later childhood."

"In the old elementary school the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades overshadowed the first six grades. The pupils in these grades having reached the age of early adolescence were developing new interests and abilities which commanded the attention of the entire school, and in a manner demanded the attention of the organization of the elementary school to the extent that the lower six grades were somewhat neglected. With the present modern organization of the schools of New Castle, the first six grades in school have come to receive the recognition and attention to which they are entitled and with the perfecting of the Platoon Organization, and the recent study and development of the curriculum, the work being done in the first six grades has attained a very high level.

The administration of the New Castle schools, while progressive, has always been conservative in the matter of introducing new methods. No new method has been adopted unless it has been proven to be worthwhile. Like everything else, methods of teaching have undergone many changes within the last score of years. Scientific study, research and experimentation in schools of education have developed new and better methods which are being applied to the fundamental subjects. Instead of the basic subjects of reading, writing, language, spelling and arithmetic being neglected in the first six grades they are better taught than ever before, and the sixth grade pupil today has a much better foundation in these subjects than the sixth grade pupil of a generation ago.

"Reading, probably the most important subject taught in the elementary school, has received special attention. At the Arthur McGill school beginning reading is taught by Miss Helen Maxwell who has developed an understanding method of teaching primary reading and which has attracted the attention of different educators who have visited her school."

In the following article Miss Maxwell describes her method.

READING

Helen Maxwell

"Children have a wealth of experiences when they come to school. They have acquired much information about home and home activities, about pets and nature in its many phases. They are keenly interested in modern machinery such as the automobile and airplane, especially in the part that makes it go."

"Many of these experiences can be continued and many new ones enjoyed after they come to school. Excursions, stories, magazines, books, pictures, the lantern slide, building a museum, and acquiring specimens for Nature Study, all are rich in stimulus. They arouse and hold the interest of children and create a desire for further reading and research thru the grades."

"In beginning reading the natural starting point is the child's own experiences. It is the golden opportunity of the teacher to be come better acquainted, to discover the language ability of the individuals in the group, and to make the child feel his interest and respect for the story he has to give her."

"The first stories are of great importance. They not only establish a kindred feeling of understanding in the group, but also establish a feeling of self confidence in the child."

"These stories given by the children must not be permitted to be wild tales, and irrelevant lines accepted. Thru skillful questions, the sequence of thought may be continued and thus the whole story be meaningful. It will be easily read by the children because they know the context. All such material is sound as the vocabulary can be checked for growth and fittingness with other reading systems by using the Gates, Horn or Thorndike vocabulary lists. These lists have been compiled by psychologists who are nationally known. They have made a comprehensive study of primers, first readers and other elementary books as well as of the language ability of the child."

"This research has resulted in carefully prepared lists of words found in various books. These lists are graded according to the various grades in school and give the words to be commonly found in textbooks and used by the child."

"The dictated stories are printed on the board, line by line, as a member of the group gives the thoughts about the subject decided upon. The story may be a group contribution or from an individual but usually it is read back to the children, line by line; holding a large line of cardboard under the line as it is read and being careful never to point to an individual word during the reading. So far the story may not have a name. At this stage such a thing is discovered and a name suggested by someone in the group. The class decides if the name is suitable."

"To really master the vocabulary of the dictated stories, the children must read them many times, so they are printed with a speed ball pen on a long strip of craft paper (common wrapping paper). The children illustrate every story, the best picture drawn of the story being used and pasted at the top of the story."

"Along with these story charts, a phrase chart is developed. The groups of words that may cause some difficulty in recognition are printed on this new strip and suitable pictures suggesting the activity or meaning of the word groups are pasted beside them. For instance one group of words like 'make the beds' may occur in a story and we would find such a picture to place beside the word group. Many individual words are first taught in this picture way or thru dramatization. Soon the name card is removed from the picture and the child is tested by giving him the matching card to find the picture. The final test is by eliminating the picture entirely and only using the printed word."

"Developed with the chart stories and other materials mentioned are books in which the same stories appear. Each child is eager to possess and read a book so he makes his own first book. The covers are of bright colored tonal paper pasted on firm cardboard and held together with notebook rings so that each new lesson may be added. The copies of the stories are taken off on the Ditto Machine and are clear and easily read. The children enjoy illustrating the book and develop a word dictionary by pasting in pictures cut out from magazines. The names of the object or activity the picture may suggest is printed below, and thus the child is constantly acquiring new words in his reading vocabulary."

"Suitable testing material is introduced with almost every lesson. One would question what a beginner in Reading could be tested on? Many things! We can have a Who, What, or Where test. Such a test is so organized that the child must read carefully each line to find the correct answer. The answer may be in the form of a picture. Then he must draw a line from the questions may be numbered and the child asked to write the number of the question on the picture answering it. He may be asked to draw the picture answer."

"These tests may take the multiple form in which there are two or may be more words beside the question, and he must draw a line or a circle around the correct one."

"Many tests used include the use of crayons. The child is always interested in using colors and in this way he is eager to carry out instructions he has to read which may check some type of comprehension work on subject matter material."

"It is quite easy for a child who has such a working vocabulary to adjust himself to any textbook within his ability. He has acquired a sufficient number of words to enable him to be partially independent after six or eight weeks. Each line of a new lesson should not need to be interpreted to him—just the new words and lesson thought developed."

"As the child gains power and independence he becomes better able to use the illustrations of a story to aid him in recognizing new words as well as the meaning of the story or context to assist him."

"There are always some words which constantly are troublesome. These should not be neglected. Such words as this, that, they, was, saw, etc. are some. They must be mastered! The sooner the better! The child must recognize them readily and without hesitation. Many devices for mastering such difficulties may be used but good old fashioned drill in an interesting game appeal is the best remedy."

"Very often, because of the lack of understanding of modern methods in teaching reading, children who are permitted to take their books home acquire very bad reading habits. Words are taught instead of thoughts and the children are permitted to point to the individual words along the line which is being read. The liner should always be used and if the child hesitates, tell him the word so that there will be no halt in the regular muscular sweep of the eye along the line. If one wishes to check on the words after the page has been completed, then use your thumbs (one on each side of the word) so as to frame it or isolate it from others in the line."

"In this way the child is seeing but the one word and he is not in a reading situation at all but in that of recognizing separate words."

"Many times this habit of word calling becomes so pronounced that the story content is lost, the child vocalizes to the extent of being conscious of throat strain and actually is almost frightened at his own voice. He does not enjoy reading because his procedure is slow and painful. He fails to comprehend the story content. The members of his group do not enjoy hearing him and soon he becomes discouraged."

"The best cure for such an unfortunate condition is to carry on the class work in the form of individual reading. The child who reads speedily is happy because he can read many books instead of one or two. He can also help his classmates in their work or go on to some other type of work in which he needs practice."

"In individual reading all children have the same advantages in introduction to the lesson in the basal text, in the drill on difficult words or word groups, and have the opportunity of reading the lesson. But as in group reading instead of listening to every member in the class read, he reads his portion in a low voice to the teacher, after the study period of silent reading supervised by the teacher. He reads rapidly and with understanding."

"Any difficulty encountered in word recognition is immediately checked and these words noted by the teacher. He completes his part and is then appointed a teacher or may go to some other books or school work. While one who encounters difficulties, quietly get help from a classmate or the teacher and thus his lesson is prepared and not stumbled over during oral expression. When the child is prepared before he will be listened to by the teacher he will ask a friend to hear him read it or to help him. Thus a high standard is established and soon a very acceptable type of reading is developed. In this form of individual work the teacher not only has an opportunity of discovering individual weaknesses, but of correcting eye habits. She can aid the child in lengthening his eye sweeps by immediately telling him the word or words he does not recognize instantly and thus he is better able to comprehend and enjoy the story."

"There are many ways to check the individuals to make certain the whole assignment has been read."

"Tests of various kinds is one way of checking. These tests are organized in many forms; the true and false—in which statements concerning the subject matter are made, one being true; the other, false, the child having to select the correct statement. There is the multiple test, the selection test and the riddle form. The selection test and the riddle form content using the vocabulary of the story. This has to be read and placed on the correct picture or possibly the child is asked to draw the answer."

"Another excellent way in checking is to have questions organized on the riddles the children reading silently to find the answers. This is enjoyed in a group recitation. The children later enjoy asking questions for their classmates to find."

"It is well for children to hear their stories read occasionally and this is done by a member or two who read well. Each child has an opportunity to try out. He may take his book home and prepare for the try out. This is usually done when a book has been completed or if children are reading from different books. They can hold the interest of the group, read the selection in a short period of time and thus have a true audience type of reading. There is then a real incentive for improvement on the part of each child if the situation is handled skillfully by the teacher. This type of reading has a two-fold advantage—it improves the type of oral expression of those that read aloud, and at the same time establishes a feeling of respect in the group of listeners for a fellow classmate."

"Individual reading has its advantages then not only as a corrective measure but gives each child the advantage of reading many books. Each child reads at a different rate of speed and the more material he can cover and read with ease the greater he increases his vocabulary and speed."

"Phonetic work is not neglected because some children are materially aided by the use of this science of sound. Both ear and eye training are given. It has been found by the thorough study and experimentation of some of the most noted psychologists that some children are never benefited by this form in aiding to read. In order to care for those whom it may benefit regular lessons are developed and daily work given. Much help is gained from phonetic training in learning to spell."

"In summarizing let us recognize that the objectives in reading which we aim to accomplish are:

"Speedy and rapid recognition of words, word groups and thought groups which lead to independent reading."

"Correct eye movements across the page in order to eliminate fatigue and increase speed."

"Development of comprehension. A deep and lasting interest in books as well as a taste for good literature."

"To independently seek reading materials assigned in connection with school activities."

"To read more rapidly silently than orally."

"A spirit of helpfulness in assisting classmates."

"The habit of immediately attacking a task and carrying it to completion."

"The habit of seeking new work when a task is completed."

"The desire for improvement and certain recognized standards by which he may judge his growth."

Meningitis Epidemic Sweeping Eastward

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 1. — The most severe epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis since the World War is sweeping eastward from the Pacific Coast, according to Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the "Journal of the American Medical Association."

Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute, who discovered the serum used for the treatment of the disease, declared, however, that there is no cause for alarm. Only a few cases of the disease have appeared in the East, Fishbein admitted.

BROTHERS MEET AFTER 41 YEARS

Notable Reunion Occurs Here At Pennsylvania Avenue
Home

Isaac Henry of Iselin, Pa., on Sunday visited his brother Thomas Henry of 1509 Pennsylvania avenue this city. It was their first meeting in a period of 41 years.

They lost track of each other and couldn't seem to get an inkling of each other's whereabouts, until last week when Isaac learned in some way that his brother Thomas was living in New Castle. Upon investigation, he found his address, and made the trip here with his daughter, son-in-law and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heard and son William, also of Iselin, Pa.

This meeting was one that will be long remembered by these folks, as both have been anxious to get in touch with one another for years past. As a means of celebration, a dinner was given at Thomas Henry's home on Pennsylvania avenue this city, and was greatly enjoyed by both.

Improve Poor Apples With Good Varieties

Lawrence County Farm Agent McCulloch Advises Raising Of Standard Varieties

Early entrance of Pennsylvania in the field of commercial production of apples has resulted in the presence of a large number of varieties seldom demanded now by the large markets, says County Agent H. R. McCulloch. To improve these poor apples they can be topworked with standard varieties. The recommended varieties include Stayman, Baldwin, Jonathan, Grimes, York, Rome, Summer Rambo, Wealthy, Yellow Transparent, Wagner, McIntosh, Smokehouse, and Ben Davis.

Old trees in the orchard should be topworked with these varieties and when new acreages are to be planted these standard varieties are worthy of preference Mr. McCulloch states.

Dague's Children Play In Gymnasium

With all of his attention concentrated upon a rolling dumbbell, an 8 year old boy ran up and down the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium, this morning, with the wild abandon of youth. His eyes sparkled with amusement and his hair was tossed.

It was Delmar Dague, whose father, Glenn Dague, was sentenced last night, by a jury of twelve Lawrence county residents, to be electrocuted, for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, of the State Highway Patrol. Neatly dressed, the handsome boy was apparently thinking only of the engrossing problem of getting that tricky dumbbell from one end of the long gymnasium to the other, by using a long wooden wand.

Those who have talked with young Delmar Dague and his sister, say that they are about the brightest children they have ever met. They can answer almost any question in connection with school work, that a questioner could think to ask.

Logan Case Is In Hands Of The Jury

Defendant Denies Driving While Intoxicated, Claiming That He Was Sick

The case of Joseph A. Logan, charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, in Lawrence county court, went to the jury shortly before noon today, after a trial before Judge Chambers. Logan was driver for a truck of the New Castle Water company, which it was claimed was driven recklessly from Jefferson street around Sycamore way.

James Gillilan, who had his truck parked in Sycamore way between the K. of C. building and the Sears & Roebuck building, said he ran out when he saw Logan coming, and jumped on the running board of his truck. He tried to stop the car, but Logan would not let him. He said Logan appeared to be intoxicated. Harry K. Bell told about seeing the truck, but was unable to say whether or not Logan was intoxicated. He said that Logan's head appeared to be clear.

Boozel Not Guilty On Check Charge

Under binding instructions from the Lawrence county court a verdict of not guilty was returned against H. M. Boozel, who was charged with issuing a check without sufficient funds. Boozel had money in the bank on which several checks had been drawn. The check over which the trouble arose was dated ahead and was presented before the time that it was to have been paid.

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, April 1, 1930—The barbers are tonsorialists. The plumber has become a sanitary engineer. Our friend, the undertaker is a mortician. A vehicle lumbering down Third Avenue the other day, loaded with packing cases, bore a sign on which was blazoned the intelligence that its Hibernian proprietors were "Truckologists." The owner of Ye Hotte Dogge Shoppe is now a "Frankfurter" and an eager-eyed lad with a wild desire to succeed in the shoe business on the fringe of Luxury Lane plies his trade under the all impelling title of "Bootician."

COMPLEX
The magnitude of building operations in New York has made of the modern real estate broker an expert adviser and analyst, rather than a salesman.

A thousand and one complexities confront the broker who undertakes the task of placing the right tenant in the right space in the new forty, fifty, sixty and seventy stories office towers that are rising, as if by magic, in the midtown and business sections. The gathering for any one of these structures alone is equivalent to the population of a good sized town.

Buildings, like men, have distinct personalities and the function of the agent is to assemble the types and grades of tenants best suited to the particular building he is handling—to secure a group of firms which will be benefitted by moving to a new location—to make an intelligent study of the tenants' individual requirements so that each may be fitted into the most advantageous unit of floor space.

MOTHER GOOSE

It happened at a film premiere. Mrs. Coogan, mother of Jackie, breezed in and breezed by, plughatting a little group of serious Broadwayfarers, who Knew Her When. "Was 'Bugs' Baer who broke the silence."

"There," said he, "goes the goose that laid the golden egg."

FOIBLES
Mazda Lane version: "Be good, sweet maid, and let who will wear diamond bracelets."

COMMON CONSCIOUS
Scene: Lobby of Newspaper Club.

Time: Old-Timer's Night.
(A brawl in progress.)
First Participant: "I am a gentleman. I fight only in the best hotels."

EXPLANATION
Belle used to be one of the best advertised blondes on Scandal Square. That was before Germany asked waivers on the Kaiser. After the war she came back from Europe, and for a time sold scandal to the Two-Bit Magazines. The stuff was called "Memoirs."

Later she opened a sublimated speakeasy under the guise of a Culture Corral—a Sap Salon where the watchword was dough and dignity. She might have made money had she started in time—before Park Avenue went tabloid. The idea of lapping highballs and flinging Freud at your partner doesn't appeal to the Limousine Trade as once it did.

So Belle decided to give the Salon the double O.

When you give a Salon a Double O, that makes a Saloon out of it.

And that's how come there's 30,001 of 'em now.

Longacre Lil describing one of her Little Playmates said to him: "He has one of those affidavit faces. If you know what I mean?"

Of course, we all know instantly what she meant.

Over on Park Avenue they call 'em: "Shows to which no debutante would think of taking her mother."

PUZZLER
Query: How did Park Avenue ever manage to discuss Hell's Kitchen before the term "inferiority complex" was coined?

GOOD NEWS OF GOOD TIMES
After a three year lay off, and at the earnest solicitation of Otto Kahn, patron of the Ahirts, Old Doc Ziegfeld is going to revive the "Follies."

That's the best assurance yet of a return to business normalcy.

As a matter of fact, had the "Follies" been idling as they should have been, last October, we probably wouldn't have had any Ticker Tumble. The Boys who kicked the props out would have had their minds on other things.

Old Doc Ziegfeld is one of the greatest of America's life-giving institutions. His function is to prevent life from growing stale and the arteries of perception from hardening. Long may he slave!

Complete Plan For Indian Home Found

Rare Drawings Are Dug Up By Workmen In Mississippi

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The complete plan of a big circular Indian house has been excavated in a cotton field in Mississippi is the announcement made by Henry B. Collins, Jr., of the United States National Museum. Mr. Collins, who has just returned from Mississippi, bringing a drawing of the house plans, said that this is the first discovery showing clearly how the prehistoric Indians of the southeast designed their buildings.

The house, which is in the frequently plowed cotton field of Claude Pepper near Deasonville, was recently recognized as an Indian site, when bones and potsherds were dug up by two young men working for the Mississippi department of archives and history. These men, Moreau Chambers and James Ford, invited Mr. Collins to work with them in excavating the site.

Posts for Roof Support

The house plan shows three circles of post holes which were used for roof supports. Mr. Collins explained. The outermost circles is 60 feet in diameter. Tracing the circles with a string, as the Indian probably did in the first place, the archeologists found that the circles were perfectly laid out. The Indian house builders dug the three circles in shallow trenches and set the posts firmly two feet deep within the trenches. The wall of the structure was very likely of wattle-work of reeds plastered with clay. Mr. Collins explained. Traces of a fire pit were inside the house and also a square of post holes which provided additional roof supports and possibly set off an iron room.

The outermost trench was filled in with kitchen and household refuse, including bones of deer, bear and smaller animals, fish jaws, clam and mussel shells, arrow points, bone scrapers and axes, one pipe and much broken pottery. Some of the pottery is a red and white kind heretofore found only in Arkansas. The trash of an Indian settlement was usually piled in a heap, and it is difficult to account for this use of it to fill the trench, Mr. Collins said.

Skeletons in Mound

One headless skeleton was unearthed in this trench. The tribe of Indians which built the house is not yet known. It is possible that this was one of the mound-building tribes, for several mounds rise above the fields within half a mile of the round house.

Excavations may be continued, Mr. Collins stated.

Peter's Adventures

DRAGON-FLY TELLS ON HIMSELF
Peter had been surprised before in his life of course, but never more so than now. He stared at Dragon-Fly, remembering the queer object in the mud at the bottom of the pool that looked like a cigar and wasn't. At last the boy found his voice.

"Well, if ever you were a larva like that cannibal, you certainly don't look it! Do you mean to tell me you can live under water?" Dragon-Fly shook his head.

"Not now!" said he. "But I could, once. A wetting wouldn't do my wings a bit of good, but there was a day when I didn't have any wings, or at least I did have, but they were folded close to my side in a waterproof case. I never used them. Yes, sir, once upon a time I was a larva and lived in mud at the bottom of this very pool. And oh how I ate!" At this recollection Dragon-Fly smacked his lips.

"I have heard since that the folks of the pool called me clumsy, but they took good care to do so behind my back, only. Believe me, boy, if ever they said anything like that to my face I would have gobbled them up. Take my word for it, in those days there were very few of the pool folks who could have escaped me had I taken a real notion to boom as of old. She Is Making Her Mother Happy

"A big change came over Edna from the time I started giving her Acidine regularly for her sour stomach," says Mrs. Hagan of 463 First St., Brooklyn. "She likes to take Acidine because it tastes just like peppermint. Therefore I can give it to her regularly enough to help her. Since she's so much brighter and happier now, I want every mother who has the same trouble as I had, to know how she can get it off her mind."

Too much acid makes grown folks suffer from biliousness and indigestion. You can imagine then, why it keeps a child's delicate little stomach so upset she has no appetite and gets puny, pale and drowsy. More than two million people are using Acidine regularly because it actually sweetens a sour stomach so quickly, tastes so good and costs so little. Get Acidine at any drug store.

It was mostly victory by purchase and buying of victory takes the gloss off the glory. If Nanking had the money now she could purchase all her present enemies. But what's the use? Soon there would be swarms of other enemies. It's profitable to be an enemy of Nanking! China had to humble herself before Russia for Russian officers could not be bought. But in China the "itching palm" is conspicuous. Remember this and you can understand much about the wars in this "squeezed-greaser" land. China is getting worse and worse. Property rights are gone. Life is unsafe. Business is paralyzed. Freedom of the press and speech has vanished. Loyalty and obedience are not. Liberty is dead. Bandits abound. But Nanking makes-believe all is "as fine as pie" and issues pious reports. Among officials there are doubtless sincere ones who would put things right but the make-believe predominates and block every move for good. But don't judge harshly. Most officials are sons of the laboring class and of the new-ly-rich. They are young and inexperienced. They pay great attention to trivial things and neglect great things. If in our Washington it's said, "He that is without GIN among you let him first cast a stone," can we condemn heathen China? We hope that some day China striplings will tire of "playing house" and will get down to horse sense.

But I'm getting away from the New Year. Gambling is everywhere. Superstition is rife. Money is wasted that might relieve famine suffering. Every temple is crowded with people offering incense, candles, paper-money and prayers to all the gods. They pray most for wealth. That prayer is not make-believe. They want wealth, and they worship the god-of-wealth with all their hearts. Every home has one made of wood, mud, or of paper but he is "Dai-zen" all the same. When business gets poor in China they say the god-of-wealth has gone to America. The paper Dai-zen is interesting. The god's throne is a big lot of gold set with jewels. Mountains of gold are at the god's left and Silver Hill is at his right. In front of him is a great bowl of jewels. On Silver Hill is the money tree a shake of which will shower you untold wealth. Over Dai-zen's head is "Foh"—blessedness. All around are his servants ready to carry wealth to those whom the god favors. This god is very amenable to flattery and he who flatters best gets most. But he too is make-believe.

May the true God-of-Wealth prosper you and friends in all good. Yours longingly for a sincere and prosperous China.

HUNTING NO BENEFIT TO QUAIL

George Conway, Editor of News, pointed by the Mahoning Valley grange to prepare and circulate a petition asking the state game commission to declare a closed season on quail in Lawrence county for five years, the claim was often made to me. That it was to the benefit of quail for hunters to shoot into them, in the hunting season, and scatter the covets, claiming it prevented breeding, and was to their benefit. This is a mistaken notion, and it does not benefit the quail in any way for either hunters or gas hawks to shoot into them; if anything the hunter is the worst of the two. A covey of quail if left to themselves will keep together, feed together, and at night huddle together under some brush or corn fodder for the protecting warmth of each other, until they scatter in the spring. And when scattered by hawks or hunters it is harder to keep warm, and great numbers perish from freezing from this cause. Hunters and gas hawks are the main causes of the present scarcity of quail, which is close to the danger line, with extinction just beyond.

The efforts of the game commission in introducing new blood to overcome the evil of inbreeding is admirable, increasing their strength and vigor. It is natural for covets to scatter before the mating season, but that is not enough where they are few in number.

Inbreeding has been responsible for putting other species of birds down and out for good, when they became too few in numbers. All animal and bird life is the strongest and most vigorous when numerous. If you don't believe this go to Campbell, O., and see their rats, that are so numerous, large and vigorous that they are offering prizes to the scholars in the public schools who can get the largest number of rat tails, and the merchants of the city are giving valuable additional prizes.

It seems to me the true sportsmen and the farmers should work together in securing more quail. For in the very nature of things our farms must be bird refuges and auxiliary game reserves. For it looks like an important step in eventually swinging the balance of nature against the bugs in favor of the birds in Lawrence county.

Personally I would like to see a quail made a song bird, as they are in Ohio, and have become so numerous and strong they seem to have no difficulty in living over winter.

Britain Plans an Air-Linked Empire

The British dirigible R-100 will attempt to bridge the Atlantic early this year, marking the first step toward the English dream of an air-linked empire. The Graf Zeppelin will start on its sixth trans-Atlantic trip. The United States, focal point of the German airship's former crossings, will be neglected on the sixth, as the big Zeppelin will fly for South America, while the dirigible R-100 in its flight to Canada may determine whether England will carry out its plan of establishing a fleet of dirigibles linking the far-flung units of the empire by air. Major G. H. Scott will be the skipper of the R-100 on its first oceanic crossing.

Bitter Primary Fights In Offing, In Pennsylvania

Filing Of Nominations Completed—Candidates Prepare For Bitter Campaigns

FOUR SEEK POST AS U. S. SENATOR

By FRED K. McILVAINE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 1.—With the filing of nominations completed and out of the way, Pennsylvania today was ready to plunge in earnestly for what promises to be one of the most bitterly fought primary contests in many years.

There are four candidates for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, five each for the governorship and lieutenant-governorship, six for secretary of internal affairs, three for one place on the Supreme court bench and three for two places on the Superior court.

Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol, Governor John S. Fisher's appointee to the unfilled place of William S. Vare in the Senate is running independently for re-election to finish out the term.

Opposing the "Fighting Quaker" for the senatorial toga are Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, backed by the Philadelphia war board and endorsed by leading Pittsburgh politicians; Francis H. Bollen, of Philadelphia, a wet candidate, and Webster Garfield Drew, City Treasurer of Bradford, who also runs alone.

Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., former attorney general of Pennsylvania is the Philadelphia war board candidate for the gubernatorial chair and will run with Secretary Davis on that ticket. Opposing him are former Governor Gifford Pinchot, running independently on a twenty-four plank platform largely aimed at the Public Service commission.

Philips For Governor
Former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, a wet; Judge J. Ambler Williams, of Norristown, independent, and Joseph D. Herben, of Philadelphia, a clergyman.

In the race for the lieutenant-governorship, are General Edward C. Shannon, Columbia, on the Brown-Davis ticket; Charles F. Armstrong, of Leechburg, who has allied himself with Clifford Pinchot; Charles Dornan, of Scranton, Bollen-Phillips candidate; Frank P. B. Thompson, of Philadelphia, and Thomas R. Aubrey, of South Brownsville, Sheriff of Fayette county.

James F. Woodward, of McKeesport, incumbent, seeks re-election as secretary of internal affairs. Opposing him are Philip H. Dewey, Gaines, on the Brown-Davis slate; State Librarian Frederic A. Godcharles, Milton; Charles C. McLain, of Indiana; John R. Gaverick, Harrisburg, and Charles Fred White, Coatesville, R. D. For Justice of the Supreme court, Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton, is on the Brown-Davis slate; Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. James, of Plymouth and Judge Albert Dutton

McDade, of Delaware county are contesting the slate.

The three seeking the two places on the Superior court bench are Judge William B. Linn, Overbrook, incumbent; Judge J. Frank Graff, Kittanning, incumbent, and Judge James A. Drew, Allegheny county.

Robbery Occurs At Grimm Store

Leave Behind Some Goods Evidently Stolen At Some Other Store

Police authorities received a call about four o'clock this morning to the effect there had been some one in the Grimm store on Randolph street and had been frightened away.

Officers M. J. Young and Letera answered in one car, while Officer Criswell answered in another.

They found that some person had gained admittance through a rear window and had left by the rear door. The proprietor was called and on investigation found that some change had been taken from the cash register, also some cigars and cigarettes. Some goods, which were not handled in the store were found in the place, indicating the possible robbery of some other place and the hurry with which the robbers had departed.

A police dog tied in a place to the rear of the store had akened the people on Lathrop street, among them Officer Showalter and some of the people saw a man on watch in the front. It was the activity of the people of the district on being awakened that frightened the robbers away.

Employment Bureau Given Co-operation

Is Being Assisted By The International Institute And Y. W. C. A.

American Legion Employment Bureau, Room 203, Greer Building, is receiving the active co-operation of the International Institute and Y. W. C. A. in securing employment for those applying, also in securing various special types of people wanted. This is proving very beneficial to all concerned.

At the Employment Bureau this morning, it was stated two women, one a practical nurse, and two men, had been put to work today.

Tariff Bill Is About Ready For Conference Scan

Republican House Leaders Prepare To Send Tariff Bill To Conference With Senate

TWENTY TO TALK OVER MEASURE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Republican leaders of the house today prepared to send the "billion dollar tariff bill" to conference with the senate in the face of Democratic charges of "gag rule" but with most western Republicans apparently satisfied.

The program will place the bill in the hands of ten members of the senate and house for the purpose of reconciling differences between the two bodies, with indications that conferees face a month's task and the necessity of asking instruction before a final agreement is made.

The Republican steering and rules committee bowed to the demands of a determined western group for separate votes on sugar, lumber, shingles and cement. They declined, however, to permit the house to register its will on these items before the conference is started.

Under the program outlined by Rep. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader, the rules committee was to draw a rule today for the conference, and unless there is objection it will be brought up for vote tomorrow.

While Rep. Garner of Texas, Democratic leader, has assailed the Republican method of handling the measure as "gag rule" it was predicted by the leaders that the huge Republican majority would bowl over any minority opposition.

Donnie Leaving For Wheeling

Will Say Good-Bye To Mother Late This Afternoon At Jail

Donnie Schroeder says goodbye to his mother today. In the steel cell on the second floor of the Lawrence County jail, the little fellow will leave his mother, who has been found guilty of murder in the first degree with the death penalty.

Since January 1st the little four and half year old lad has been in the custody of Probation Officer Jack M. Dunlap. When he came to the Dunlap home, Donnie was poorly clothed and showed the results of being shunted from pillar to post. In the three months he has been here he has put on weight and has developed a real affection for both Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap who have treated him not as a ward of the state, but as one of their own family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap are leaving for Wheeling, West Virginia, late this afternoon where on Wednesday morning, Judge Ritz will hold a hearing in Juvenile Court to decide who shall have custody of the boy.

His father, Homer Schroeder of Amarillo, Texas, has wired asking for him, and the grandfather, Joe Crawford of Benwood, W. Va., has asked for him. Judge Ritz will hand down an order following the hearing it is expected.

Huston Opposed Muscle Shoals

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee last December wrote a pamphlet against government operation of Muscle Shoals, which was circulated by the American Farm Bureau Federation, Chester H. Gray, the legislative agent of the bureau told the senate lobby investigating committee today.

Recalled because of statements he has made since last on the stand, Gray identified a letter he had written President Thompson of the American Federation Farm Bureau in which he said:

"Inclosed please find a pamphlet written by Mr. C. H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee against government operation of Muscle Shoals. As you know he is a personal friend of President Hoover and this is the administration viewpoint on Muscle Shoals, in which Mr. Huston has long been interested as president of the Tennessee River Improvement association."

The Tennessee River Improvement association was backed by the American Cyanamid company which with the Union Carbide company has been seeking Muscle Shoals. The Cyanamid company has spent $164,000 in lobby fees and the Carbide company gave Huston $36,100 which Huston used as stock market margin. Gray worked in "close harmony," he testified, and sent out propaganda for Huston's organization and the Cyanamid company in the name of the Farm Bureau.

Politicians In Serious Squabble

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—A squabble over the slating of Judge George W. Maxey of Scranton for the supreme court justice instead of Lieut. Governor Arthur James of Luzerne county today threatened the harmony of the Philadelphia G. O. P. organization.

The situation is rapidly causing alarm among local politicians.

Judge Maxey, it is understood, has been given the promise of the "war board" that he will be supported for election to the post and in return announced his support of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for the U. S. senatorial nomination and Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., for the gubernatorial post. Now James refuses to step out of the race and insists he will do so only at the urgent request of William S. Vare. Since James was elected to his present office of the Vare-Beideman slate in 1926 and has always supported Vare the Philadelphia leader does not feel inclined to ask him to step aside.

It has also been intimated Senator Joseph R. Grundy and his followers are willing to back the candidacy of James.

The lieutenant governor was in the city today conferring with Vare and Sheriff Thomas Cunningham, another one of his loyal friends.

"All I want is a fair field and if Mr. Vare goes along behind my candidacy I am ready for a strenuous campaign," James said.

"It seems to me that some of the members of the Philadelphia organization are acting queerly in this matter."

Ellwood Man Reports Irene Will Be Tenth Woman To Be Executed

If the sentence of Irene Schroeder is carried out as the jury ordered it, death in the electric chair, the Trigger Blonde will be the tenth woman in the state to be executed, and the first woman in the history of the state to be electrocuted, according to a statement today by William Harms of 731 Park avenue, Ellwood City, Pa.

Not alone that, but if Irene is executed she will be the first woman to be executed in 40 years in this state. Mr. Harms has compiled some data upon the execution of women in the state of Pennsylvania and says that nine women have paid with their lives for capital crimes in this state since 1866. In that year the first woman was executed.

Two more women were executed in 1869 and none from then until 1893 when two more went to the gallows. In 1866 another woman was executed. In 1867 another, one in 1881 and the last one to die on the scaffold was in 1889. Since then no women have paid with their lives for crimes they have committed.

Since the electric chair replaced the scaffold as a means of execution, two women have been found guilty in the first degree and sentenced to death but their sentences were later commuted to life imprisonment. Both of these women were from Philadelphia. In over 40 years there have been no women executed, and if Irene goes to the chair she will be the first woman in all that time to pay the extreme penalty.

If women feel sorry for the bride and men feel sorry for the groom, they usually live happily ever after.

Y.P.C.U. Societies Meet Saturday

Mercer Presbytery Young People To Hear Returned Missionaries

Members of the various Y. P. C. U. societies of the United Presbyterian churches of Mercer Presbytery will meet in the Shenango United Presbyterian church on Saturday evening April 5, at 7:45 for a missionary rally with Dr. and Mrs. Howard Buchanan as the principal speakers.

The Buchanans are well known to United Presbyterian young people as authors of "The Promise," which book has been widely used as a text by mission study groups since its appearance some months ago. Dr. Buchanan and his wife sailed for Egypt in 1921 via London where the doctor took a course in tropical medicine. In July 1922 he joined the staff of Assiut hospital, Assiut, Egypt; and two years later took up work at Nasser in the Sudan. Dr. Buchanan served at Nasser until March, 1925, when he was compelled to leave the Sudan because of a very serious infection of his eyes. As a result of the infection of his eyes, one eye had to be removed when he arrived in Egypt on his return trip to America, and the sight of the other eye seriously impaired. For the past few months Dr. Buchanan has been undergoing treatment in the Columbia hospital, Wilkesburg, Pa., where he is soon to undergo a delicate operation in the hope that the vision of his remaining eye may be at least partially restored.

Braslau Explains Why She Is Single

Prima Donna Says Fate Has Kept Her Unwed, But Lauds Marriage

NEW YORK, April 1.—Sophie Braslau, prima donna of the concert stage, has almost everything that is prized by a woman—except a husband.

"Why are you single?" The question would have been rude and pertinent but for the fact Miss Braslau consented to answer it, on the ground nothing she would say might tend to "incriminate her."

Miss Braslau has not the proverbial excuse she is "wedded to her art." Marriage, she says, is merely more difficult for the artist, who must devote much of her time, thought and energy to an exacting public.

Miss Braslau is an eloquent advocate of marriage—of the substantial, old-fashioned sort.

Marriage is Career.

Miss Braslau said today: "It's fate rather than fancy that has left me single. I am, to some extent, the creature of an unusually happy environment. I have had so much love at home that it has not been necessary to seek it elsewhere. Such conditions tend to obviate hasty or premature marriage."

"Does the modern woman seek a career? She can find it in marriage. Surely it takes as much patience, persistence, ambition and wisdom to make a man supremely happy in his home and to bring up happy, healthy, well-equipped children, as to become an actress, a professional woman, or a musician."

"I place the burden of the home upon the woman."

"Before marriage man may do his courting, but after marriage the woman must carry it on."

"Marriage? I am enthused by its possibilities. Surely it may be a greater experience than I have known."

Attached to the clinic is a cooking school, which offers a course of one year for doctors and nurses wishing to take advanced studies in dietetics.

That Prof. Noorden should open courses also for cooks and housewives is the ardent wish of a great number of Viennese men, who prefer good cooking at home to the best diet treatment in a hospital.

The Story Of American Industry
New England Turns To Manufacturing

THE WAR OF 1812 DEALT A CRUSHING BLOW TO THE AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE. OUR FRIGATES WON MANY GLORIOUS VICTORIES AND OUR PRIVATEERS TOOK MANY PRIZES, BUT THE BRITISH BLOCKADE PUT AN END TO OUR TRADE WITH EUROPE AND PARALYZED OUR COMMERCE. DEPRIVED OF HER TRADING ENTERPRISES, NEW ENGLAND TURNED TO TEXTILE MANUFACTURING.

BOYCOTT AND BLOCKADE HAD STOPPED THE IMPORTATION OF ENGLISH CLOTH, AND THE ONLY WAY THE GREAT DEMAND FOR TEXTILES COULD BE MET WAS BY DOMESTIC PRODUCTION. THE SOUTH, WHICH HAD BEEN RAISING LARGER CROPS OF COTTON EACH YEAR FOR THE ENGLISH MILLS, LOOKED HOPEFULLY TO NEW ENGLAND FOR A NEW MARKET FOR ITS PRODUCT.

COMPANIES WERE FORMED, FACTORIES BUILT AND THE GREAT WATER POWER RESOURCES OF NEW ENGLAND PUT TO WORK. IN 1814, FRANCIS CABOT LOWELL, BOSTON MERCHANT, INVENTED THE FIRST POWER LOOM IN AMERICA. BEFORE THAT TIME, THE YARN HAD BEEN SPUN IN THE MILLS, AND WOVEN INTO CLOTH IN THE HOMES. IT WAS NOW POSSIBLE TO COMBINE ALL THE PROCESSES FOR MAKING COTTON CLOTH IN ONE FACTORY.

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY THRIVED IN NEW ENGLAND, AND MANY OF THE TOWNS THAT SPANG UP AROUND THE MILLS SOON BECAME FLOURISHING CITIES. AFTER THE WAR WAS ENDED AND PEACE RESTORED, THE ENGLISH CLOTH MANUFACTURERS TRIED TO REGAIN THE AMERICAN MARKET BY UNDER-SELLING OUR FACTORIES, BUT THOUGH MANY FIRMS FAILED, THE AMERICAN INDUSTRY WEATHERED THIS STORM OF COMPETITION.

Central Christians Win Floor Championship

Temple Israel Five Is Downed By Score 20-19

Central Christians Take Church League Title In Sizzling Game At Y. M. C. A.

E. BAUMAN AND COWMEADOW STAR

The Central Christian church basketball team last night took the nod at the Y. M. C. A. floor as champions of the New Castle Church League. The Christians retained their championship by a sensational 20 to 19 victory over the Temple Israel. The game ranks with the best played at the "Y" floor this year and was not in the bucket for the Evans coached machine until the final whistle had sounded. In the preliminary game the Red Birds were downed by the Eagles in the first game of the Boy's League championship play.

It looked like a runaway for the Christians as the game opened last night. It was the second game of the series and the Temple were fighting with their backs to the wall, having been beaten by the Christians last Friday night. Both teams pranced out on the floor chuck full of confidence. The Christians went into an early lead and it looked bad for the Van-Fossan coached team. The end of the first half found the Temple on the short end of the score 16 to 6. The playing of Earl Bauman and Cowmeadow had held the Christians up, at the top, the former had two buckets and the collegian had three to his credit. The Temples were held to a lone field goal in the first half, this being made by Rogovin, who also had a pair of fouls and incidentally Rogovin was high scorer for his team with six points.

Temples Stage Comeback
The Temples came back to the court for the second half with grim determination. They were ten points behind, the fight was going to be terrific if they hoped to win, and they felt equal to the task of over taking the Christians. It must be said in passing that the fight waged by the Temples was great, it brought out their strength and fighting qualities, but they fell short after a magnificently rally by one point.

The big lead gained by the Christians in the first half stood them in good stead and while they were held to a lone field goal and made two fouls in the entire second half, they coasted along to the title with that ten-point lead in the first half as the big barrier for the Temples to knock-down.

E. Solomon, Sac Levin and H. Levine battled brilliantly in the second half to pull the Temples out of the mire, but they were not quite equal to the task. The Christians showed plainly their superiority. They have a great team and are deserving of the championship that rests with them after that fine exhibition last night. The Temples must also come in for share of the honors in being runned-up to the Christians.

Eagles Win Leg
In the preliminary game the Eagles defeated the Red Birds 18 to 14. At the end of the first half the score was 7-7. It was the fine last half attack that gave the Eagles their victory, being led by the Whitman Davies and Deep. This was the first game of a three game series for the championship in the Boy's League.

Plenty Of Action Here Friday Night

Included On Card Are Two Heavyweights Who Will Furnish Thrills

SOME ATHLETES TO CUT TRAINING TODAY

Fans who like heavyweights will see four of them when the P. R. R. system championships are held here Friday night. There'll be one heavyweight fistie event and one heavyweight wrestling bout. In addition there will be a light-heavyweight mat bout and a light-heavyweight boxing match.

On March 17 the fans watched two professional heavyweights punch each other at the bowl and they enjoyed the contest. The boxers and wrestlers who will appear in the heavyweight matches here fairly dot on action. The entire card consists of eight boxing and eight wrestling matches.

Most of the participants will end heavy training today but some of them will work out in their respective cities Wednesday. The P. R. R. finals always furnish plenty of excitement. The boxing bouts are listed for three rounds each and the wrestling events will go nine minutes each. The participants will come from the Central region and western division to oppose the eastern division and New York zone athletes. Officials of these respective clubs are interested in their athletes as each is a bonafide employee of the company and to the victors will fall lots of athletic honor.

Joey Goodman Wins But Tragedy Stalks

Tragedy stalked through the Motor Square Garden ring, Pittsburgh last night while Joey Goodman, Cleveland, outpointed Johnny Mellow, Detroit in a 10-round bout. After Mellow left the ring defeated he was informed that his four year son, Johnny, had been killed by an auto yesterday in Detroit. The telegram of sadness was withheld from the father who's right name is Thibeleaux until after the bout.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

New Castle's Seventh ward five man team will probably bowl Wednesday in the A. B. C. at Cleveland.

A New Jersey promoter is reported to have hung up a $20,000 purse for a championship flyweight match between Midget Wolgast and Willie La Morte.

When the P. R. R. championships are held here Friday night more than two tons of human anatomy will participate in the wrestling and boxing events. In fact there will be 4,700 pounds punched and tumbled about. There will two participants in every class of boxing and two in each wrestling bout. The weights range from 112 to 192.

Jack Gagnon's knockout of Tuffy Griffiths last night at Philadelphia was one of the upsets that come when a favorite rides the crest of popularity.

Homer Rankin, athletic coach, Glenwood high, New Boston, Ohio and his brother, Bob, were injured when their auto overturned near Somerset, Ohio.

K. O. Christner-Joe Sekyra, April 2 bout at Akron has been postponed until April 9, owing to an injury to Sekyra's ear, incurred in training.

Congregationals To Fight For Pennant

At a meeting of the First Congregational ball team held Sunday, Jack Steinbrink was elected to manage the team again this year. Tunny White, veteran catcher was elected as coach of the team. The team feels very fortunate in securing a man of White's ability and experience as coach of the team. Johnny Lewis was re-elected as secretary and treasurer.

Sixteen men were in attendance and plans were made for the coming year. Practice sessions will be held in about two weeks. Several new faces appeared at the meeting, notably Price, formerly of the champion Lawrence Indies, Dunkerly of the Boro A. S. C. Bender of the Cascade A. S. White of the Clifton Flats, and with these new men to add to last year's veterans, the Welsh will give every team in the Church League a run for the honors.

The boys are all eagerly awaiting the opening of the season and nothing short of the championship will satisfy them this year. One of the leading contenders last year, they are confident of coping the gonfalon this year.

Any players desiring a tryout with the team is requested to get in touch with Steinbrink at 5391-J or Coach Tunny White.

Sam Engle, enthusiastic follower of the team for the last 6 years and former manager, was appointed as official keeper of statistics for the team this year.

Play Off Finals In Pool Tourney

Members of the High Twelve Club are looking forward to Saturday, April 5th, with great expectancy, when the finals in the club's pool tournament, which has been in progress throughout the winter, will be staged with "Bill" Klee and Albert Street as the participants.

All Fools' Day Follies

This is the day the Sport Bug expects to ponder over ideas of this momentous character.

Chawge's Chinaman's Chance
Jack Sharkey, Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera have agreed to a series of elimination fights, the ultimate winner to box hardy ol' George Godfrey a year from today, probably in Africa.

Battle Cup at Rich Mr. Ruth
Babe Ruth will donate $10,000 to a Home for Impoverished American League baseball magnates if he does not make at least 40 home runs next season.

Will Cut 'Em in Pieces!
Plans are being made to promote a battle royal featuring Schmeling, Carnera and their respective boards of managers if a ring big enough can be built.

"Rube-in-the-Rough" Ready
Rube Goldberg, high ball hero of the 1930 Artists and Writers' Golf Tournament, will be available to take Bobby Jones' place should the captain of the U. S. Walker Cup team be unable to play against Great Britain's best amateurs this Spring. Cartoonist Goldberg may also help Horton Smith design a special hole-in-one comic art course at the new Cragston-on-Hudson "millionaires' club."

Why Shires Sheds Tears
Art ("The Great") Shires, headline grabber of the Chicago White Sox, is taking his hat off to nobody in sport except—the exploitation genius back of the Primo Carnera one-man sock circus. "All I need is a press agent like that," laments baseball's best boxer.

Wiss This Were April 1 News!
Now that Jack Dempsey seems to have changed his mind again and will try a come-back, another "million-dollar gate" looms with either Schmeling or Carnera getting part of that melon. Of course, we hope that Jack succeeds where Jeffries failed, but it does look as though the ancient Mauler means to take a kick at a hat with something under it that may prove even tougher than Tunney!

Griffiths Kayoed By Jack Gagnon
(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—Mr. Jack Gagnon of Boston took an extremely deep bow before the world of pugilism today.

Up to last evening Mr. Gagnon was merely a French-Canadian battler, unworried by the income tax. This morning he was greeted as the conqueror of Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City Iowa's, light heavyweight of importance.

Gagnon scored a technical knockout over Griffiths in the sixth round of a gifted left hook and a crushing right. The Bostonian was considered merely another step in the ladder. Griffiths had essayed to climb to the championship and his sensational victory was a surprise.

The Iowa boxer won the first two rounds but in the third Gagnon dropped Griffiths with a right to the chin. Tuffy took a count of six but immediately went down again, getting up without a count. The fourth and fifth rounds were fairly even. In the sixth Gagnon hurled three rights to Tuffy's head, the last smack sending him to the canvas. The referee started to count, then stopped, awarding Gagnon the fight on a technical kayo despite protests of Griffiths that he was able to continue.

No Time Set For Opening Golf Here
Attaches of the municipal golf course here have not designated when the course will open. Recently ordered by Councilman Louis Genkinger to have golfers stay off the course owing to the condition of the turf. Probability is the recreation board will meet soon and set an opening date.

Inaugural Race At Bowie Today

King Thoroughbred will feature at Bowie today when 17 sprinters fresh from Florida and Louisiana campaigns start in the $5,000 Inaugural handicap, a feature of opening day. Rapid Transit, sensation of the Miami meet, will pack 127 pounds over the seven furlongs. Paul Bunyan, New Orleans winner, gets in with two pounds less and flashy Gun Royal will carry 122 pounds.

Forty-Nine Boys Report On Monday

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh Passes Out Equipment On Monday

Material Looks Green; Nine Veterans Still Remain For 1930 Team

This afternoon at Taggart field some 50 candidates for positions on the New Castle high school 1930 football eleven will start spring football training, according to an announcement made by Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh.

On Monday afternoon out of over 150 boys, 50 were selected to report daily until the weather becomes too warm for football. The reason for choosing such a small number from the large delegation is that only 50 or 75 per cent can be equipped.

Pass Out Equipment.
Much was not accomplished Monday. Coach Bridenbaugh only passed out material and assigned lockers to the best looking prospects. Over 150 boys have signed up to take to the gridiron, but since only close to 75 can be equipped, the coach was obliged to choose the best looking candidates. Out of last year's squad only nine remain.

Out of this group Regis McAuley, quarterback, and George Deep, guard, are the only two from last year's first string eleven.

Robert Hoose, Robert Jamison, Charles Schepp, Pericles Askounes, James Sotus, Ludwig Ostrosky, Nick Uram and James Mike were either on last season's second or third team. The other candidates have little experience.

Some have seen action in junior high schools of the city, while others have never played football. This afternoon regular training will start. Coach Bridenbaugh faces a rather difficult task in putting out a strong eleven next season with the material on hand.

Following are the names of candidates who reported for spring training on Monday afternoon: Robert Hoose, George Deep, William Cicoone, Robert Jamison, Don Polise, Steve Janovich, Charles Schepp, Frank Cisar, William Brundu, James Mike, Lester Smith, Louis Greensberg, William Hazenski, Gus Ponian, John Grommes, Tony Cooper, Kenneth Donegan, Harry Crisid, Fred Hileman, Steve Kakos, Habib Deep, Robert Louden, Frank Reis, Ludwig Ostrosky, James Sotus, Luther Rowe, John Uram, Fred Fablan, Jean Butrus, Mike DeCarbo, Andrew Leaky, Pericles Askounes, Dave Nesbit.

W. E. SHANER BADLY WOUNDED BY BANDITS LATE MONDAY EVENING

First Night Of Work For Toll-
Keeper Of Koppel Bridge,
Results Disastrously

Shaner Puts Up Fight, It Is Said, But Is Wounded
In Mouth And Neck

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—W. E. Shaner, tollkeeper of the Koppel bridge, is in the local hospital as a result of a conflict with robbers at the toll house of the Koppel bridge about 10:30 Monday night.

It was Shaner's first night on the job, and from what the police can learn, he was approached by two young men, who were after cash. He is said to have knocked the gun from one of the robbers' hand, but the other fired, wounding him in the neck and mouth. He is in the hospital now and is too ill to question to any great extent.

The old man was found by the crew of the Harmony company, coming from Beaver Falls on the car that gets in town at 11:15. The robbery must have occurred at least an hour before that, as the cars only run every hour and a half at that time of night. The car crew put him in the car and brought him to Ellwood City where an ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the local hospital for treatment.

W. E. Shaner is well known here, and his many friends are anxious as to the shooting.

State police are working on several clues.

Kiwanians Indulge In Foolishness

Program Of Fun Enjoyed By
Kiwanis Club At Dinner-
Meeting Here On Monday

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—Members of the Kiwanis club enjoyed a program of fun and frolic on the occasion of their weekly dinner-meeting Monday night in the dining room of the Lutheran church. The night was designated as "All Fools Night" and F. L. Schweitzer was chief "foolster". All the members wore small and humorous hats, and many varied were the April food candy and jokes perpetrated on the unsuspecting members.

Two-Gun Lambert, the famous shot who is going to talk to the Rod and Gun club this evening, was present as a special guest and gave an interesting three-minute talk on sports. Other special guests were M. A. Bickett, J. M. Marshall, scoutmaster of Kiwanis troop 11, who won the cup in the recent scout roundup; Lewis Nickum, head of troop 13, and Professor Charles French.

Howell Williams, clever sleight-of-hand performer, and his buddy from Geneva college, gave a very amusing and interesting exhibit of legerdemain. The entire meeting was most successful and a delicious menu, with the exception of the phony Eskimo Pies, and a good time was enjoyed.

Club Enjoying Theater Party This Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—Six members of the J. E. B. club are motoring to Pittsburgh this afternoon to take dinner and witness the performance of "The Strange Interlude". This outing is one of the many theater parties enjoyed by the club during the year. Mrs. L. O. Ullman is scheduled to entertain the club members next Tuesday evening at her home on Park avenue.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

By ROY GROVE

Central Press Sports Writer

How do you finish your stroke? Every professional can tell you the direction of your tee shot by watching your backswing. "They can tell you accurately whether you are going to hook or slice the instant they see your club leave the ground on your backswing."

Therefore, the backswing must be an important factor in driving a straight ball down the fairway.

The arc described on the downswing is the same arc after you have hit the ball, or more commonly known as follow-through. You cannot take a flat backswing and finish with an upright swing without losing your balance, resulting in a terrible tee shot.

Now, if you pull back in your backswing then the forward (as you will note in the small illustration). Compare the two illustrations. You can tell at a glance which one is correct.

Do not pull the shoulder around as shown in (C). The hands in (A) have fallen down and dropped the club, the power is lost.

Note how the left and right elbow are broken and sticking out at the hole in (B). There is no hip action at the point (D) and the right knee at (E) is stiff. The figure is tight all the way through. To top it off the player is up on his toe, with his right foot.

There has been plenty of freedom and whip in the drive of the larger illustration.

A hick town has become a city when people begin to exaggerate their incomes instead of pretending they make little.

Heavier Stick Work Browns' Need If Club Goes Up This Season

By Central Press
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 1.—With one of the best pitching staffs in the American league, a promising young backstop, plenty of infield and outfield talent, the St. Louis Browns today find themselves needing but one quality to make the team a formidable foe of the Athletics. That quality is batting strength.

Last season the Browns boasted of but three 300 hitters—Sennie Manush, Fred Schulte and Ralph Kress. The team hit but 276, topping only the weak Chicago and Boston clubs in this department in 1929.

The Browns have long had their eyes on Goose Goslin, of the Washington Senators, and put in a strong bid for him this winter. Manager Bill Killefer felt that with the explosive bat of the Goose included in the Browns' makeup this season, they might go somewhere. Failing to land Goose, Killefer has tried to develop the general stickwork of his club.

Hard Hitting Outfield

The Browns are in a position to go two ways. They finished fourth last season, a strong threat to the A's, Yanks and Indians. With the natural improvement of the younger men in the outfit, the St. Louisans have some hopes of advancing up the ladder. But, on the other hand, the Tigers and White Sox loom as more dangerous rivals this year than they were last.

Manush and Schulte are fixtures in the Brown garden for 1930, but there is a scramble on between Earl McNeely and some of the youngsters for the other outfield berth. Finding the proper man for this post would lift a lot of care off the shoulders of Killefer.

Heavyweight Championship
Fight Will Be Held In New York On June 12

Both Principals "Will Swing
On The Gate," Will Get Percentage Of Receipts

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, April 1.—Some time today, formal sanction is expected to be granted for the holding of the first world's heavyweight championship match ever fought on a strict percentage basis in all the years of boxing's history. The date will be June 12; the place, the Yankee Stadium; the beneficiary, the local Milk Fund; and the principals, Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and Max Schmeling, of Germany. Neither of the latter will be guaranteed the change out of a pale, thin dime.

They will "swing the gate," as the saying is, each receiving 25 per cent of the receipts, and they thus earn the distinction of being the first pair of contenders in a heavyweight title fight who have been willing to gamble with the proposition known as personal appeal. Sharkey, indeed, accepted a cut from 27 1/2 to 25 per cent without demur. He had been told that the boxing commission didn't favor the larger figure, but he promptly made not the slightest difficulty about the matter.

Both Confident
The fact is that both Sharkey and Schmeling are so certain that they can beat each other that it might be possible to get them there for $125 and expenses. They are impressed only with the fact that the heavyweight championship will rise with the decision and the action of the New York authorities is expected to take care of that today.

Change In Date

There has been a change in the original date of the enterprise and another might follow in the line up of the promotion, since it is understood that the Garden Corporation has intimated that it wishes no further connection with charity shows. The Garden Corporation of recent memory hasn't been right since they took the horses off the front of street cars and put them on the race tracks, so maybe it will decide to think better of this. It has made plenty of serious money, directly and indirectly, from milk fund and Christmas fund promotions.

Its direct rewards have come from the fact that, for some years, it has accepted a share of the profits—and there always are profits—for "promotional expenses." This is the Garden's reward for feeling charitable and, in return, it gladly gives its time and generously lends its name.

Million Dollar Gate

Its indirect profits can be counted in the millions. It was the milk fund show of 1923 that later sent Willard second and bat-breaking Ralph Kress at short. Frank O'Rourke and Sammy Hale are making strong bids for the third sack.

A Catcher Star

In Rick Ferrell, Dan Howley bequeathed to Killefer one of the finest looking young catchers in the majors when Dan quit the Browns to take charge of the Reds. Rick is a brother of Wesley, the Cleveland pitching ace, and while the Browns are not claiming Ferrell looks better than Mickey Cochrane they believe he is destined to be a bright star.

That pitching staff which looks so good as the Browns taper off training for the 1930 grind, includes two

NEW YORK STOCKS

U. S. Steel Moves Up
Reaches 196 Early Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 1.—A rush to buy the steel stocks, the oils and a few of the high-priced rails and specialties resulted in a series of sharp advances in active trading in the first hour today. Piling up of buying and selling orders set the tickers behind 16 minutes in the first 35, and the turnover in the first half-hour was 751,000 shares.

At the head of the upward move was U. S. Steel, which forged ahead to a new high at 196, up 2 1/2 points in the first 40 minutes. Bethlehem rose a point to 109 1/2, also a new high record for 1930. International Tel and Tel carried its spectacular rise to 71 1/2, up nearly 6 points from yesterday's low. Sinclair was again the leader of the independent oils, with a 1 1/2 point rise to 31, on merger rumors connecting the company with Barnsdall and Prairie Oil and Gas.

Kroger Grocery, Standard Brands and other low-priced mercantile stocks sold up a point or more behind a powerful buying wave. The building construction stocks were also in good form, with Johns Manville up 3 1/2 at 130 and American Radiator above 38.

In the utility group, Columbia Gas around 83 was practically unchanged from yesterday's price of 104 1/2, a 25 per cent stock dividend having been marked off the stock today. Radio, General Electric and other fast-stoppers were under profit taking and sold off a point or two.

Strength and activity in the oils in the second hour accompanied reports of further cutting down of crude oil production and increase in gasoline consumption. Atlantic Refining sold above 50 for the first time this year and Standard Oil of N. J. sold at the year's highest price of 76.

Although moderate reactions took place in various sections of the list the market as a whole was active and strong in the second hour, with the exception of the coppers and motors, for which buying demand was small.

Cotton sold up about 50 cents a bale, grain was irregular and call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

Police Guarding Dearborn Plant

Thousands Gather On Rumor That Large Number Are To Be Employed

(International News Service) DEARBORN, April 1.—Dearborn police today guarded the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company to prevent a repetition of yesterday's disorders when tear gas and night sticks were used to disperse between 10,000 and 15,000 disappointed job seekers.

Rumors that the Ford company was about to hire a large number of men brought thousands to the employment office. Disappointed, the men became unruly.

Police broke up the crowds using night sticks and tear bombs, it was said. A detail of eight police was kept on duty through the night. The officers will be kept there today.
